By SPENCER MOOSA
TAIPEI (AP)—Southern Formosa today counted 181 dead, 974 injured, and 12½ million dollars damage in the wake of a howling tropical typhoon which struck Thursday night and Friday morning.

No Americans were on the list of known dead.

United States military installations and the big Nationalist naval base at Tsingyong were hard hit.

Fishing Boats Sunk
Sixty dead were added to previous death tolls by reports of fishermen drowned when their boats sank off Tainan.

The casualty reports were compiled from official and unofficial reports. Government spokesmen said they expected the toll to mount as scattered reports filtered in from outlying areas and towns in the typhoon's path.

Inaugural Delay Draws Criticism

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark.) said today he would support any Republican move to "reasonably shorten" the 80-day period that now must elapse between election and inauguration of a new president.

Fulbright said it takes too long for an outgoing president to hand over the reins to a new one.

The Arkansas Democrat told reporters that uncertainties confronting the country between the election of Dwight D. Eisenhower on Nov. 4 and his inauguration as president next Jan. 20 show the need for a change in the Constitution to shorten the time.

He also reiterated that he favors a moratorium on any political attacks on President-elect Eisenhower.

"I think the Democrats ought to give him a chance to show what he can do," he said.

Fulbright is the man who said in 1946, when the Republicans won control of Congress, that President Truman should resign.

Regarding the inauguration time lag, he said:

"You need a little time to effect the transfer of administrations, and certainly not less than 30 days. Even shortening the interval to the first of the year would be better."

The transition once extended from the election until March 4 of the following year. A constitutional amendment fixing the Jan. 20 inaugural day became effective in 1933.

Detroit Edison Strike Settled

DETROIT (AP)—The 23-day strike of 4,000 CIO Utility Workers against the Detroit Edison Co. is ended.

The company and union signed a new contract last night. It was the same 14-cent wage package on which the union balked Wednesday, after learning at the last minute the company had fired five strikers and suspended two others.

The signing followed 11 hours of continuous negotiations.

Nolan Leach, president of the Edison local of the Utility Workers, said the company agreed to take back all seven men. But, he added, it plans to fire them later for alleged "destructive acts" during the strike.

Such action, under the contract, would send the firings to arbitration of "destructive acts."

Edison said workers will be recalled by its personnel department and that normal shifts will be restored "as soon as possible."

Communist Writes German Textbook; U. S. Pays $47,600

By BRACK CURRY
BONN, Germany (AP)—Chagrined U. S. officials in Germany admitted last night they paid 200,000 marks ($47,600) toward a new history textbook and distributed 1,100 copies before they discovered its author was a Communist who included Red propaganda in his book.

The Red-slanted pages were discovered by a German government employee who read the book and then wired American authorities: "What's going on here?"

That started the U. S. high commissioner's office checking. It found, officials admitted, that historian Arno Peters, a 36-year-old German-born ex-journalist, was a Communist party member and had "injected communism into every field of world history."

Schools Warned
The commission impounded 9,200 copies received from the printers. These included 1,100 copies which already had gone out to American-sponsored public reading rooms throughout West Germany.

Peters, who contracted with U. S. officials to write the book, also had run off a large printing of his own for private sale.

The Rhineland-Palatinate State Ministry of Culture last night cautioned all schools in the state against circulating the history. The Lower Saxony Ministry of Culture said it was suing for the return of 50,000 marks ($11,900) it had put up to back the book.

The U. S. contracted for the book—titled "Synchronistische Weltgeschichte"—synchronistic world history—as a part of a program to provide new textbooks for German schools. Under the agreement signed with Peters and his wife, Anneliese, in April, 1951, the author was paid $7,000 marks ($13,566) in cash and furnished 150,000 marks ($35,700) worth of paper.

Text Not Checked
The high commissioner's office said now it is "considering whether to take legal action against him."

The U. S. authorities explained they had not made a security check on Peters "because he had high endorsements from eminent German educators."

Their explanation for failing to check his text was that the commissioner's education branch had been cut from 86 persons to two between the time the book was ordered and when it was delivered.

Gangster Rated Tammany Boss

NEW YORK (AP)—Reputed underworld boss Frank Costello emerged today, in State Crime Commission testimony, as a man also once known as "the boss" around the Manhattan Democratic organization's Tammany Hall.

The statement was made yesterday by a former Tammany district leader as commission witnesses and previously—undisclosed records spun a web of political-undiscovered intrigue stretching from smoke-filled rooms to courthouse chambers.

Daniel Neustein, the former Tammany leader, said he held the post from 1941 until 1945 when he was told: "The boss didn't want me any more." He said "the boss" reference presumably was to Costello.

Neustein also asserted it was "almost common knowledge in those days that nominations for the state Supreme Court had to be paid for."

After the hearings by the New York Crime Commission were adjourned last night that U. S. Atty. Gen. James R. McGranery had asked for a transcript of testimony by Armand Chankalian, administrative assistant to the U. S. attorney here.

Man Gored To Death By Bull On Farm

COLDWATER (AP)—Death by goring was the verdict returned last night by Corner Irving Stansell in the death of Herman Luh, 64, whose body was found in a field in nearby Ovid township yesterday.

Burr Howland, on whose farm the body was found, said he owned a bull but insisted it had been locked up for a week. Luh was accustomed to picking up kindling wood on the Howland farm.

Customers Impatient
The situation is so bad, says the State Department, even Russians are becoming impatient.

The customers of the government-run automotive repair plant at Kishinev, capital of the Moldavian Soviet Republic, finally complained. The situation was set forth in detail in a copy of the newspaper Soviet Moldavia received by the State Department.

Wait Three Years
The Kishinev newspaper thus quoted the director of the winery: "They were telling us all the time that as soon as they receive new parts they would repair the truck. Finally, we found that all that was left of our truck was the frame and part of the body. We had to file a complaint with the republic organizations. And only then did the director of the plant, Comrade Artemyev, begin to search for another truck to give us in exchange. It is possible that in three years the plant did not receive the parts they need to repair our truck."

The Soviet newspaper reported that the Stakhanovites, or pace setters, at the plant wrote the Moldavian minister of motor transport. He replied after delay that it was all true but defended the management, according to the paper, which added that three months later "nothing has been done."

Auto Repairs Give Russians Headache

By EDWARD E. BOMAR
WASHINGTON (AP)—Russians claim they invented automobiles, but apparently they're having trouble keeping them running.

Some example of automotive repair service, Russian-style:

1. The director of the Kishinev winery says he waited three years for his truck to be repaired. Then he found that it had been "cannibalized"—stripped of parts to repair other trucks.
2. A ZISS truck, of the Kishinev Truzhenik collective, was delivered to a repair plant July 7 last year still waiting its turn although in the meantime 6,938 rubles—nominally about $1,744—had been paid in advance for repairs.

Governor Dewey Not Interested In Cabinet Job

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH
AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—President-elect Eisenhower turned today to the question of whether to keep alive during the next four years an organization of political amateurs who helped him win the election.

The future of the National Citizens for Eisenhower Committee came up for decision amid indications the general plans to call on Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York to serve from time to time as a troubleshooter for the new Republican administration.

Seattle Man Willing
But Dewey, Eisenhower said, has "emphatically re-affirmed" that he is not available for a cabinet job in the new Republican administration. That is the situation at least for the present, the general added.

Walter Williams, Seattle businessman who served as chairman of the citizens committee during the campaign, arranged to confer with Eisenhower regarding whether the big organization of self-styled political amateurs should stay in business or close up shop temporarily.

And there was a possibility the talk might get around to a cabinet post or some other major job for Williams. He has been mentioned for secretary of the interior or secretary of commerce.

Williams reportedly wouldn't turn down any such offer—as Dewey quite possibly did yesterday.

Available for Advice

Reds Dislodged On Pinpoint Hill

By ROBERT TUCKMAN
SEOUL (AP)—Counterattacking South Koreans drove Chinese Communists toward the north end of blood-soaked Sniper Ridge today after winning battered Pinpoint Hill for the 15th time in a month.

Fighting for Pinpoint, dominant height on the ridge, had raged for 26 hours with rifle fire at hand-to-hand range.

An Eighth Army spokesman said the Republic of Korea Infantrymen secured the peak at 6:25 a. m. and drove the last Red remnants to their maze of tunnels and caves on the Yoke, at the northern tip of Sniper.

From that stronghold, the Reds again and again have sprung attacks and speared reinforcements forcing the ROKs off Pinpoint.

Close-quarter fighting raged also on Little Finger Ridge, east of Pinpoint.

One Dead In Fire

DETROIT (AP)—Edward Rossberg, 67, died last night in a fire that swept a six-room apartment near downtown Detroit. Four others escaped the flames, but a youth was seriously hurt in leaping through a second story window. Pablo Rivera, 24, plunged through a rear window to escape. One arm was almost severed.

Grandchildren Steal Show For Birthday Of Mrs. Eisenhower

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—It was a cake appeared.

The top tier disappeared quickly, and the two youngsters—fed by their grandparents while cameramen snapped away—got most of it.

When it came time to turn in, Dwight David kissed his grandmother goodnight and told her with a side glance at the cake: "I'll be back in the morning."

The general gave Mamie a shell pink house robe of soft wool for her birthday. Pleased, she displayed it to the newsmen who got her to describe it for them.

From the press, she received an amethyst jewelry set consisting of a necklace, earrings, brooch and bracelet.

She said she had no amethyst jewelry and always had wanted some.

Hurricane Season Ends For Florida

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The hurricane season ends officially at midnight tonight when the Weather Bureau cuts off its 50-station teletype circuit that extends from Charleston, S. C., to Brownsville, Tex.

Weather Bureau observers will keep a watchful eye peeled for tropical disturbances, especially until Dec. 1, but if averages mean anything, Florida won't have a hurricane. That will make it the second successive year without one.

Chief storm forecaster Grady Norton said, however, that his staff is not ignoring the possibility of a late hurricane.

Stage Set For Conference Of Truman And Eisenhower

By WARREN ROGERS JR.
WASHINGTON (AP)—President-elect Eisenhower's advance scouts sifting secrets and shunning publicity, quietly cleared the way today for his conference next Tuesday with President Truman.

The information gatherers, Massachusetts' Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. and Detroit banker Joseph Dodge, went about their tasks inside a self-imposed, no-news-today cocoon.

Asking Questions
Neither Lodge, who is Eisenhower's liaison with almost all government agencies but the Budget Bureau, nor Dodge, who takes over there, had any report on their progress.

Lodge made it clear yesterday, his first on the job, that he was asking questions, not answering them. In shirt sleeves, making phone calls from his Senate office, Dodge told reporters only that he is gathering "top secret" information from the Truman administration.

He described his schedule today in this terse fashion: "I have an appointment with a man who wants to see me in confidence."

Budget About Ready
Practically nothing has been heard from the other half of the Lodge-Dodge team since he arrived in Washington last Wednesday. Dodge announced he was going to watch—but not criticize or advise—while budget officials put the finishing touches to the last federal budget of the Truman administration, which goes to Congress in January.

Dodge and other Eisenhower aides have emphasized that the general will not accept responsibility for anything in the Truman budget.

Sen. Bridges of New Hampshire, Republican floor leader in the Senate, quoted Dodge Thursday as saying that most of the preliminary hearings, on which the budget estimates are based, have been completed. Bridges said the drafting was "almost in the post-mortem stage" before Dodge stepped in.

The White House, meanwhile, came up with a tip that the Eisenhower-Truman conference will deal primarily with vital foreign policy, defense and money matters. An announcement yesterday said that among those sitting in on the White House talks will be Secretary of State Acheson, Secretary of Defense Lovett, Secretary of the Treasury Snyder and Mutual Security Administrator W. Averell Harriman.

Big Welcome Planned
Lodge and Dodge will be at Eisenhower's side after the general first meets alone with Truman in the President's office. Presumably, the Korean War and Eisenhower's plan to visit Korea will top the agenda at the Eisenhower-Truman tete-a-tete.

Republicans are planning a big reception when Eisenhower hits town Tuesday by plane from (Please Turn To Page 12, Col. 8)

Sheriff Kills 2 In Self-Defense

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—A federal grand jury has accepted the word of Sheriff Willis McCall of Lake County that he shot two Negro prisoners in self-defense.

The jury had been asked to look into complaints that the sheriff and Deputy J. L. Yates deprived the Negroes of their civil rights. In returning a no true bill yesterday, the jury cleared McCall of any wrongdoing in the killing of Samuel Sheppard and the wounding of Walter Lee Irvin while the two men were being transported from the state prison farm at Raiford.

McCall had said the Negroes, two of four charged with raping a white woman in 1949, attacked him when he stopped his car, which had a flat tire, near Umatilla a year ago.

Irvin contended the sheriff opened fire without cause.

A coroner's jury held that McCall acted in defense of his life.

Sheppard had been convicted and sentenced to death but the U. S. Supreme Court ordered a new trial on grounds that no names of Negroes were in the jury box. McCall was taking them for a hearing on a move to re-try the case outside of Lake County when the incident occurred.

One of the other Negroes charged with the crime was killed by a posse. A fourth is serving a life sentence.

Strike Canceled At H-Bomb Site

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—The promise of investigation by the Atomic Energy Commission has halted a threatened strike at the big H-bomb plant near here.

Frank B. Garvin, business manager of the American Federation of Technical Engineers, announced last night the strike was canceled after the AEC telegraphed him that its investigation will start Monday.

Before Garvin's announcement, the federation was going forward with plans to throw picket lines around the H-bomb plant Monday. Garvin said the lines will not form and work will go on normally.

The dispute involved the federation and the Miller Electric Company of Jacksonville, Fla., a subcontractor at the H-bomb project.

The dispute started after the company laid off six of its employees. A company spokesman said they were laid off because of a normal curtailment of work. But the federation claimed the employees were fired for union activities and that seniority was ignored.

1 Dead, 4 Hurt In Auto Crash At Gould City

NEWBERRY—Royal Hodgekin, 36, of Curtis, was killed and four persons were injured, one seriously, in an automobile collision at 7:50 last night at the intersection of the Gould City Road and US-2.

Injured were:
Mrs. Stella Mitchell, 72, Curtis; laceration of skull, broken right leg, condition serious.

Charles Kelley, Grand Rapids; broken leg.

Sidney Mitchell, 72, Curtis; cuts on face.

Theodore Bingman, 29, of 1521 Stephenson Ave., Escanaba; cuts on face.

All of the injured were taken to the Schoolcraft Memorial Hospital in Manistiquette for treatment.

Michigan State Police officers at the Newberry post who investigated the accident reported that a car driven by Kelley was traveling west on US-2 at the time of the accident. A pickup truck driven by Mitchell drove out from the Gould City Road onto US-2. Mitchell reported that he had stopped for the arterial but drove onto the main highway when he failed to see the oncoming car driven by Kelley.

Mrs. Mitchell and Hodgekin were riding with Mitchell in the pickup truck. Hodgekin sustained a fractured skull and was killed instantly.

Bingman was a passenger in the car driven by Kelley.

George Davis, Mackinac county coroner, investigated the accident.

Dollars Gaining Value In Canada

DETROIT (AP)—The United States dollar, which has been moving back to par with the Canadian dollar in the foreign exchange market here, was quoted at 1 13-16th percent discount to the Canadian money here.

It was the smallest discount since last March when the Canadian money became stronger in the exchange market. At one time last summer, the Canadian dollar was worth $1.05 in American money.

Detroit banking officials predicted the U. S. dollar would reach official par with the Canadian unit within weeks.

Delta Air Force Reservists Get Questionnaires

Tenth Air Force Reservists in Delta county have been mailed inventory questionnaires, according to Maj. Gen. Harry A. Johnson, commanding general, Tenth Air Force, Selfridge Air Force Base, Mich.

General Johnson stressed that response to the inventory questionnaire does not increase the reservist's vulnerability to active military service, and that the inventory is specifically for the purpose of bringing Air Force records up-to-date with current data which only the individual reservist can supply.

Each reservist is urged, for his own personal benefit, and the benefit of his family, to accurately complete all forms and return them within thirty days.

Reservists who have not received inventory questionnaires are urged to communicate with Headquarters Tenth Air Force, Selfridge Air Force Base, Michigan.

Annual Audit: City's Finances In Good Condition, Report Shows

Major improvements in two utilities were in progress in the past fiscal year, all of the city's four utilities showed a dollars and cents profit, and the fiscal year, ended June 30, 1952, with Escanaba in excellent financial position.

This was revealed in the latest audit of the city of Escanaba recently reported by Andrew M. Skaug, Escanaba certified public accountant.

Copies of the audit report have been received by members of the City Council, city officers and department heads. Interested persons may examine copies in City Hall and a copy is also available to the public at Carnegie Public Library.

Purchase Recommendations
The audit report covers the city's fiscal year for the 12-month period from July 1, 1951, to June 30, 1952.

In a letter of transmittal to the City Council accompanying the audit report, Skaug directed attention to the purchase of co-insurance for some city buildings, and to purchases of some equipment for city utilities without taking bids.

"I believe that formal bids should be called for on this type of purchase even though only one brand may be specified for use in the utility," Skaug recommended.

Revenues Increase
Actual revenues to the city for the past fiscal year totaled $771,806.83. This was $72,377.66 in excess of actual expenditures, which totaled $699,429.17.

The city received $43,776.91 in revenue more than anticipated and spent $28,600.75 less than estimated to establish the $72,377.66 figure in excess of revenue.

Major sources of revenue were from general property tax—$239,970.96; transfers from other municipal funds, largely utilities—$248,359.36; from other agencies—$208,134.73; and the remainder from other sources.

Expenditures for larger items in the budget during the past year included the following: Streets $155,908.89; fire $84,882.90; police $76,454.68; garbage $30,670.19; recreation $29,112.79; industrial buildings and property $28,666.49; engineering $12,293.74; water front development $16,087.74; and welfare $15,949.44.

Assets and Liabilities
The audit reveals that at the end of the fiscal year the city had a cash balance of $147,775.02 compared to $28,276.31 cash balance at the end of the previous fiscal year.

Hunters, Enter Your Deer In Escanaba Buck Contest

Hunters, that deer you bag may bring you more than a couple of venison steaks and a trophy to hang in your hunting camp.

If it looks like the biggest buck you ever nabbed, or the smallest spike horn you ever saw, or even it has no distinction to set it apart, bring it into the Chamber of Commerce weighing station near the C&NW depot on Stephenson Avenue and put yourself on the list of potential prize-winners.

This year, as a feature of the Red Jacket Jamboree, the retail committee of the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce is offering a series of prizes for standout bucks brought down in this area.

Prizes of Hunting Gear
Stalkers of the largest and smallest deer brought to the weighing station will win prizes of hunting gear, it was announced today by the C. of C. Bucks with an unusually large crown of antlers and with a high number of points will also bring for their hunters prizes that can be used in next year's hunting treks.

Hunters were encouraged by C. of C. Secretary Hugh Grow to bring in their game even if it doesn't look like a prize-winner. Prizes will be offered in several other categories not yet announced, he said.

The weighing station will be maintained starting today and until next Saturday, Nov. 22. Successful nimrods can bring in their kill any time during the day or, if they get back to town too late to find the station open, bring the buck in the next day.

If an attendant isn't around the station when the hunter stops there, Grow asks that the hunter wait for a few minutes until one comes along.

The weighing shack, set in the "woods" at the corner of Stephenson Avenue and Third Avenue North, was donated to the C. of C. by the Mohr Fence Company. A Toledo scale will be the judge of the weights of bucks brought in.

Pancakes And Square Dance
Two other events have been scheduled for next week by the Chamber of Commerce as part of the Red Jacket Jamboree.

One is a Pancake Feed and dance which will be held next Tuesday evening, Nov. 18, at the Knights of Columbus Hall for hunters, their hunting party and their friends. A small fee will entitle the hunters to a lunch of pancakes and an a couple hours of dancing.

The other affair will be a public Square Dance on Third Avenue North at the junction with Stephenson on Thursday night, Nov. 20. The hoedown will be starting at about 10 p. m. and last until the "400" arrives.

Calling the step will be Steve Baltic, instructor of the Adult Education class in square dancing, assisted by his class members. A fiddle will supply the necessary musical background.

Sonny's Lethal Talent Studied

By ROBERT C. RUARK
NEW YORK — I suppose you could call Claus Eischen, 16, of Kearney, N. J., an unusual child — since he expressed his disapproval of both parents by shooting Mama and Papa neatly through the head with a .22 rifle. We are not clear as to why he shot his mother, for whom reports say he is professedly sorry. He disliked his father extremely he told the United Press in Miami, where he was apprehended in an auto that contained a shotgun, two rifles, a pistol, two hunting knives, and a hatchet. Although he did not attempt to use this small arsenal when the cops got him, one might safely say that he was amply prepared for any contingency that might arise. The young man, if 16 years can comprise adult responsibility, was an honor student. First stories said he slew his parents as they slept because they insisted he quit high school and go to work. "I had a part-time job and my family wanted me to quit school and take a full-time job," was the motive the brilliant youth advanced for the murder of his parents. He Blacked Out The patrolman who put the clutch on the redundantly armed young honor student said the boy showed no sorrow or resentment. "He was one of the calmest persons I ever saw," the arresting officer said. A few hours after the arrest, Miami police said they had recovered Eischen's mother's ring, which he had hocked in Miami for $12. He also said that he had blacked out after killing his parents, following the nightmare he had which caused him to get up and load the gun with which he relieved his Father and Mother of further concern for his future. It is to be hoped that the modern popular psychological hobby of hating Poppa while loving Mommy does not extend to such concise methods of love her, hate him. Along some lines of juvenile tolerance of parents it might be wise to preach that while a child's tantrum is often pardonable, the de facto presence in a getaway car of a shotgun, two rifles, a pistol, two hunting knives, and a hatchet might argue forcibly that the young son's whim was not obscured by impracticality when he came out of the blackout into which most impulse-killers invariably retreat for publication. Boy With Toys I am willing to hold hands with all the aliens when they say that young Claus Eischen was not a normal child. I am willing to buy the fact that two people are rather conclusively dead because of frustrations A to X, and deep-rooted psychic disruptions too numerous to catalogue. All this I concede, but we come right back to the contents of the car and the pawing of his Mother's ring for $12. He loved his Mother, hated his Father. The dreary insensibility of what he was packing keeps clanging through my ears. A shotgun. Two rifles. A pistol. Two hunting knives. A hatchet. This kid was going rabbit hunting? It is said that the large debate is whether the young man will face death in the electric chair for first-degree murder as opposed to several alternatives, such as temporary or chronic insanity, or criminal insanity. Being neither judge nor psychiatrist I cannot hand down a verdict. But if I were a teacher I should have to have this boy in my schoolroom, especially if he brought his best-loved toys to class along with the eraser and the pencil set.

She said her father had known the man's family and had often talked about Taylor being born a slave. The 84-year-old motorist is Curtis M. Van Brimer of Toledo, police said. Presidential Voting In Delta County
(in 1,000s)

Delta County Voter Selected Winning Candidates Since 1932

By ROSE LACHAPPELLE
Delta County voters have turned in a majority for the winning candidate in every presidential election since 1932, figures from past official vote canvasses reveal.

As in the nation, the Democratic plurality in Delta County has been decreasing since 1936, and this year Delta voters switched to give the Republican candidate plurality of 567 votes.

The state is two behind Delta County in giving the plurality to the winning presidential candidate, for Michigan supported Wendell Wilkie one year and Thomas Dewey in another.

For Teddy Roosevelt
From 1872 to 1932 the state of Michigan consistently cast pluralities for the Republican presidential candidate, with the exception of 1912, when most Michigan voters favored Theodore Roosevelt on the Progressive party ticket.

Since 1932 Michigan gave majorities to the Democratic candidate except in 1940 and 1948. In those years the voters in Michigan gave a plurality of 6,926 to Wilkie and of 36,147 to Dewey.

Delta County gave Franklin Roosevelt a plurality in 1932 of 2,997 votes, and in 1936 swelled that to 4,427. The third term issue probably is responsible for the FDR plurality in Delta County shrinking to 2,884 in 1940. In 1944, his plurality in the county was down to 2,162 votes.

Harry Truman received a 1,529-vote margin from Delta County over Dewey in 1948, the year Michigan gave Dewey its electoral votes. The 1948 Democratic plurality in Delta County was about one-third of the 1936 FDR plurality here.

This decreasing Democratic plurality for presidential candidates in Delta County may have foreshadowed the Eisenhower win here in 1952. However, Delta County has, with only a few exceptions, given pluralities to Democrats running for state and county office and for congressional seats in this period.

Dem Vote Prevails
The 1952 voting, which gave like the lead in Delta County, also gave the Democratic gubernatorial candidate a 1,939-vote lead over Fred Alger. Delta voters also gave pluralities to every Democratic candidate for county offices and Congressional seats.

The exceptions since 1932 have been Rene Labre, who won over Democrat Frank Baum by 52 votes in the county clerk race in 1932; and William Ellsworth, state senator candidate who won over Democrat E. G. Sandin by 5,359 votes in 1948.

If any trend in previous voting in Delta County could presage the swing to Ike in 1952, it would be the 1950 elections. At that time, Republican Charles Potter received a 1,123-vote lead over Fred Hanscom in Delta County, and Mary Constantineau polled 451 more votes than her Democratic opponent for county clerk.

Though Republicans may have been heartened by this "crack" in the Democratic fort, it must be remembered that in 1950 Edward Gibbs, a Democrat, obtained 1,717 more votes than William Ellsworth in the state senator race, and Einar Erlandson, Democratic candidate for state legislator, outpolled Roy Jensen by 1,372 votes.

The vote for Eisenhower here followed the rest of the nation in picking the general on the basis of personality and reputation, rather than party affiliation, and in seeking a change, if voting patterns are any indication.

Big Vote Favors GOP
Voter turn-out for 1952 was the highest since 1940, when 14,833 ballots were cast for president in Delta County. The figure for 1952 is 14,431.

Delta County voting statistics run counter to the Democrats' belief that the greater the voter turnout, the higher the Democratic plurality. This belief is based on the fact that working groups have the poorest voting record, and usually vote Democratic.

In the two years (1940 and 1952) when Delta County cast more than 14,000 ballots, the Republican vote increased considerably, and the Democratic vote showed a decrease. The voting totals in Delta County for each presidential election since 1932 follow: 1932, 11,501; 1936, 12,304; 1940, 14,833; 1944, 12,737; 1948, 12,360; 1952, 14,431.

These figures do not necessarily mean that throughout the nation, a heavy voter turnout would not spell victory for Democrats, although that certainly was the case this year. Delta County has a population of over 32,000, and of this number about 9850 are non-voters in this period.

farm workers. Other sections of the nation may have more industrial workers, more religious and ethnic groups, etc., to change the vote pattern.

Vote For Governor
In balloting for governor during presidential election years, Delta County voters have cast most votes for Democratic candidates.

In 1932 county voters gave William Comstock a 2,207 vote lead over his Republican opponent, and in 1936 Frank Murphy outpolled Frank Fitzgerald by 3,692 votes.

In 1940, the Democratic candidate, Murray D. Van Wagoner had a lead of 3,190 votes in Delta County, but in 1944 Edward Fry's vote outdistanced that of his GOP rival, Harry Kelly, by only 569 votes, in Delta County.

The three-time winner, Gov. G. Mennen Williams, had a vote lead of 2,246 in Delta County over Kim Sigler in 1948, and was 1,214 votes ahead of Harry Kelly in 1950. The election totals for 1952, which may be subject to a recount, show Williams increased his plurality to 1,939 over Fred Alger, in Delta County.

On the county level, the personality of candidates is much more familiar to voters, and drawing conclusions on their vote-getting ability for trends in political parties is hazardous.

The results show a decreasing Democratic plurality since 1936, just as in voting for president over the 20-year span. The 1932 election gave the candidate with the greatest number of votes a 3,401 margin over his GOP opponent. In 1936, the margin increased to 6,075, just as FDR polled his greatest vote, when the nation was pulling out of a depression with New Deal measures. The margin was only about half, or 3,863 in

Exams On C&NW Rules Delayed

A busy ore shipping season is postponing for one month the C&NW Railway rules book examination which was to be given here this month and next to all local employees of the railroad.

Originally slated to begin Nov. 1, the oral exam will now begin the first of December for the older employees and in March for junior employees when they return from a winter layoff.

Unavailable Time
The rescheduling was necessitated by the present lack of off-duty time for the men who are needed in intensive shipping operations at the docks, according to Chief Clerk Rene Labre.

"With taking care of the many boats that are coming in this month, the men just aren't available right now," he said.

When the examination schedule begins, classes of seven or eight men will be given the oral test as a group. The test will be administered by Axel R. Anderson, locomotive engineer, and Train Dispatcher Ray C. Olson, with assistance of the division officers.

The examination will cover all phases of the operation of the C&NW Railway. Every employee in train, engine, or yard service, in train dispatching and telegraph operating must pass the examination in the new rules which will become effective Jan. 1.

Company-Wide Exam
All employees of the C&NW will eventually be given the examination under the company's plan to familiarize its workers with the revised book and with operational changes.

The rules book is the first such publication issued by the C&NW since 1929 and was made necessary by several railroad innovations including diesel power, automatic train control, etc.

Pressure Goes On UN To Halt Atrocities Behind Iron Curtain

By RUSSELL BRINES
WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Madden (D-Ind.) said today pressure will be put on the next Congress to ask the United Nations to act against "continuing atrocities" being committed behind the Iron Curtain.

The first step, Madden told a reporter, will be to propose that Congress turn over to the U. N. the evidence and conclusions of a special House committee which yesterday concluded a year's investigation into the wartime slaughter of 15,000 Polish officers.

After that, he said, "we should follow up the atrocities against U. N. troops in Korea and those that are still continuing behind the Iron Curtain."

Russia Indicted
"The Soviets are systematically practicing genocide (extermination of races) to break the backbone of these countries," he said.

The committee, which Madden hears, has recommended that the United Nations be asked to bring Russia to trial before the World Court for the deaths of the Polish officers.

The group says its evidence proves the Russians killed the Polish leaders and buried some of them in Katyn Forest, Western Russia, to prepare for Sovietized Poland. Moscow blames the Germans.

Madden said "these atrocities can be reduced by mobilizing world opinion. The work of our committee, I believe, has helped cut down the atrocities in Korea."

More than 100 witnesses testified before the committee in this country and Europe. Hearings throughout this week were held to determine whether American officials suppressed information blaming Katyn on the Russians to avoid disrupting relations with the Soviets.

Maj. Gen. Clayton Bissell, chief intelligence officer in 1945, concluded testimony yesterday by telling the committee he classified a military report on Katyn as "top secret" because he thought its publication would affect Russia's war effort against Japan.

The report was made in May, 1945, by Lt. Col. John H. Van Vliet Jr., who two years earlier had been taken to Katyn as a German war prisoner. The report, which concluded the Russians were guilty, later disappeared from Pentagon files.

Bissell said he was convinced the report should be handled secretly because official policy was the "deal" made at Yalta the previous February to get Russia "to stab Japan in the back when it would do us the most good."

If the Van Vliet report became known, he said, there would have been international "political implications" affecting the war effort. He expressed doubt the Russians would have participated in formation of the United Nations, then being created at San Francisco.

Alan Cranston, a wartime official of the Office of War Information, said he did not attempt to censor wartime broadcasts by Polish language commentators in 1943.

Marion Kreutz testified earlier he had been suspended from Detroit's station WJBK for anti-Russian comments about Katyn, but Cranston said Kreutz continued broadcasting until 1945.

Joseph B. Phillips, deputy assistant secretary of state, said the Voice of America had broadcast numerous stories about Katyn, most of them during the congressional investigation. He said the agency had avoided making propaganda of earlier private investigations to keep from arousing the Poles in Poland to action inviting Soviet retaliation.

Feller Suicide Not Excusable On Grounds of Committee Smear

THE charge of Secretary General Trygve Lie of the United Nations that the suicide of Abraham Feller was caused by the strain of defending United Nations employees "against indiscriminate smears and exaggerated charges" will find little acceptance by the American people.

A Senate subcommittee has been investigating charges of subversive affiliations by some American members of the U. N. staff. So has a federal grand jury. In the course of the investigation, a surprisingly large number of American employees of the U. N. either admitted Communist affiliation or refused to testify on grounds that their testimony may incriminate them.

Are these the kind of people that Abraham Feller has been defending to the point of nervous exhaustion and ultimate suicide?

It is imperative to the welfare and security of this country that American employees of the U. N. be loyal, patriotic citizens. As director of the U. N. legal department, Feller certainly should have realized the essentiality of weeding out of the U. N. any American employees whose loyalty and patriotism to this country is subject to question.

The suicide of Feller does not brand the work of the Senate subcommittee nor the federal grand jury's investigation as unjustified, as Lie charged. On the contrary, it points suspicion to Feller as an American official in the U. N. whose own loyalty is now subject to question.

It is high time that the United States gets rid of any American employees of the U. N. who are not loyal, patriotic citizens of this country. And it is important that we do find out who is loyal and who is not.

Anyone who is embarrassed by a question as to whether or not he has ever been or is now a member of the Communist party certainly should not be in a position of trust in the United Nations secretariat.

The Greatest Question

ED Lipscomb, public relations director of the National Cotton Council, recently made speech before the annual convention of the Farm Equipment Institute, in which he discussed what he regards as the greatest question this nation faces.

The question, he said, is "whether or not we are going to accept in our national life the pagan principle of a dominant state and secondary citizen in place of the Biblical concept on which America was founded and by which it has grown—the concept that the single function and purpose of government is to protect the inalienable God-given rights and sovereignty of each individual man as the temporary, personal, physical embodiment of an immortal soul."

Then he went on to detail some of the steps we have taken down the road to paternalism and the super-state. One of the worst sources of discouragement, he observed, "is the fact that almost nobody is 100 per cent opposed to the trend that threatens to engulf us. If you will ask around, you will find that practically everybody is against Communism and Socialism and even welfare statism. Practically everybody is also against the government extravagance and inflation which can so easily bring them to us. At least practically everybody says he is, and the chances are he really is—except the part that may be putting a few temporary extra dollars into his own particular personal pocket."

In other words, short-sighted personal selfishness has contributed mightily to a trend which has destroyed freedom and independence and the dignity of the individual in nation after nation—and is destroying them here. It has been subtly aided and abetted by politicians who want nothing so much as more and more power over our lives and our purse-strings. Have we the strength and the courage to change a course whose certain end is disaster?

Men Whom Jesus Chose

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D.

"Ye have not chosen Me," said Jesus to His inner circle of disciples, the twelve (John 15:16), "but I have chosen you, and ordained you, that ye should go and bring forth fruit."

Who were those whom Jesus chose and why did He choose them instead of others, many of whom apparently became disciples? Some of these Jesus trained and sent seventy of them, two by two, to prepare the way "into every city and place, whither He himself would come" (Luke 10:1).

And just as definitely as Jesus said to those of the twelve, "Come, follow Me," choosing them as His close and constant companions, He definitely sent others back home (Mark 5:19) (Luke 9:57-61).

Why then did Jesus choose the twelve, and only those twelve, for the special apostleship? I suppose that one can answer that question. But one may make some conjecture by putting together various passages and incidents in the Gospel narrative and any light thus suggested is strengthened by the knowledge of what the twelve, omitting the traitorous Judas, ultimately became.

Apparently Jesus saw in these ultimate Apostles latent powers of leadership, ambition, capacity for sacrifice, daring, adventurous spirit and solid strength. They seem to have had the vision of the Messianic kingdom, but it was of an earthly kingdom in which they were to have place and power.

Though their intense ambition appears in that connection, revealing their deepest weakness in the passion to be first (Mark 10:35-45), the solidity and spiritual nature of their strength became manifest in the way in which they ultimately learned the lessons of service and humility that Jesus sought so zealously to teach. It brought all their ambition and strength into the faith, vision, and consecration with which they abandoned their materialistic hopes and devoted themselves to the Kingdom "not of this world."

That eleven of humble origin, of lowly occupation and environment without conspicuous special training, should have become great Apostles and world leaders in the founding of the Christian Church, and in the fulfilling of the Master's command to make disciples of all nations (in itself an amazing expression of faith and vision), is surely among the great miracles of history.

For it must not be forgotten that the twelve whom Jesus called were young men. I do not know how it may be with others but I have constantly to be reminding myself of that fact. Because of what they became, the tendency is to picture the Apostles as old men with long whiskers.

But they were young men as they rallied to Jesus, a young man himself. Christianity began as a youth movement founded on the visions and dreams of old men like Cimon (Luke 2:25), "waiting for the consolation of Israel."

From youth to old age, what inspiration in The lives of the twelve!

Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—Senator Taft telephoned General Eisenhower last week with a gentle reminder that he would like to make some recommendations for the cabinet.

Taft didn't press the matter or go into detail. Nevertheless, he left the implication that the Morningside Heights breakfast pledge of Taft patronage in the Eisenhower administration had not been forgotten.

The General promised to consider carefully any suggestions Taft would like to make and also said he was anxious to work closely with Taft on a legislative program.

Taft also suggested that one of the new administration's first aims should be to strengthen the judicial system and transfer to the courts some of the power now held by commissions.

If Taft gets the green light from Eisenhower on this, it will touch off about the bitterest legislative battle any recent congress has seen.

For, though Taft didn't spell it out, what he has in mind is a plan long discussed by representatives of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce and the National Association of Manufacturers to undercut and by-pass such agencies as the Federal Power Commission, Federal Trade Commission, Securities and Exchange Commission, Interstate Commerce Commission, and Federal Communications Commission.

These regulate power companies, gas-transmission lines, natural gas, the stock exchange, fair trade and competition, the railroads, bus and trucking lines, radio, television telegraph and telephone. Most of these are branded as New Deal agencies, though all but two—the FCC and SEC—were set up long before the Roosevelt administration, and the FCC actually was established on the foundation of Herbert Hoover's old federal radio commission.

TRUMAN CRONY

For some years, big-business lobbyists have proposed shifting power from these agencies to the courts with the idea of weakening their power. Actually, most court dockets are too crowded to handle work of this kind; second, federal judges are the last ones to relish handling regulatory questions.

Already the efficiency of some of these commissions has been undermined during the Truman administration, especially the Federal Power Commission. Truman appointed as its chairman, his old crony, ex-Sen. Mon Wallgren of Washington State, and Wallgren, an ex-jeweler, knew far less about electric power and natural gas than he did about poker.

After Wallgren's friend in the White House had the courage to veto the Kerr bill permitting a price increase of natural gas to northern cities, Wallgren turned around and reversed the President. He gave Phillips Petroleum what Truman had refused to give.

Since then Wallgren has been replaced by a new chairman, Thomas Buchanan, who had the courage to crack down on the big gas companies. As a result, friends of the big gas and oil companies in the Senate, led by Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas, blocked his confirmation. He is now serving on an interim appointment and will be one of the first conscientious public servants sure to get the ax.

If Eisenhower, who has promised to keep the 5-percenters out of Washington, also watches the 27-percenters, he can do a real job for the public. However, it will be through the appointment of good men to the commissions, not by weakening them.

IKE'S NOTES

Eisenhower was swamped with about 9,000 letters and telegrams shortly after he arrived in Augusta. While touched at the tribute, he was also dismayed regarding replies. He hadn't had so much mail since this writer served as the funnel for sending Ike 18,000 Christmas Cards last December. They were delivered by special airplane courier in Paris . . . in the case of the Augusta mail, Ike got Senator Seaton of Nebraska to lend his executive assistant, Homer Grunther. He is now trying to get his head above the deluge of mail . . . Mrs. Eisenhower had a terrible fright in Augusta just after the family arrived, when Mrs. John Eisenhower and the three grandchildren got separated. What happened was that Mrs. Ike, Jr., and the three children, riding in another car, got cut off by a motorcycle escort, and were forced to remain behind the rest of the motor caravan. It took an hour and a half for them to get through the crowds to the Country Club. Meanwhile Mamie was worried sick . . . Eisenhower wasn't too anxious to take press-relations expert Jim Hagerly with him to Augusta, wasn't worried about press relations.

Washington State Area Receives Millions As Zinc Boom Develops

BONANZA MINE NEAR COLVILLE, Wash., was bought for $2 million last year as area's zinc boom started rolling. Most of the zinc is found near the surface, allowing open-pit mining.

COLVILLE, Wash.—(NEA)—Zinc, the metal that figures in all our lives, may never be in short supply again, even in event of a war.

Here in the northeastern part of Washington, about 80 miles north of Spokane, a little heretofore-unknown zinc boom is under way. The area promises to become this continent's biggest source of zinc, says an official of the U. S. Bureau of Mines, who adds: "The more the mines are worked, the more fabulous are the discoveries."

Another official puts the potential zinc-lead ores in one 50,000-acre tract at a worth of $6.5 billion, even at today's low prices.

This all means that another future bottleneck will probably be wiped out for American industry and consumers. Washing machines, typewriters, fuel pumps and many other articles have zinc-alloyed parts. Iron and steel producers use zinc to lay a rust-proof coating on iron sheets, pipe and wire. Newspapers use zinc to engrave pictures for printing.

Millions of dollars are being spent in this rugged, mountainous area on new claims, flotation mills and other equipment. The area extends right up to the Canadian border and into British Columbia.

Just about every well-established metal company, plus some newcomers, are in on the quest for zinc. About 20 miles north of here the American Smelting & Refining Co. is completing a 1000-ton flotation mill at a cost in excess of $1 million. Last year, Anaconda Copper Mining Co. paid $2 million for the Bonanza Mine 12 miles north of here and is developing it along with other properties.

The Kennecott Copper Corp. and New Jersey Zinc Exploration Co., a wholly-owned subsidiary of the New Jersey Zinc Co., have opened exploration offices.

A while back, the Colville Chamber of Commerce featured mining at its annual banquet. Out of 400 who attended, 180 were outsiders, some from as far away as New York City.

The Bend Oreille (pronounced ponder-ray) Mines and Metals Co. at nearby Metaline Falls has opened its second 800-ton flotation mill, with a third under construction. Miners are in short supply, even though the company completed 50 two-bedroom houses last Spring at a cost of $160,000.

The boom is showing results in production already. Washington mines produced 19,143 tons of zinc last year, a 29 per cent gain over 1950. This year it will be considerably more. While this booming area's production still is a good 25 per cent less than the zinc produced by the famed Tri-State area (Kansas, Missouri and Oklahoma), government mining men believe someday it will supplant Tri-State.

The zinc ore is found near the surface, allowing low-cost open-pit mining. What ore that is found below the surface is in large slopes or pockets. A slope may be 200 to 300 feet wide and as high as a three-story building.

This means miners can work one place for days without moving, and refuse can be dumped into the cavern and left. The ore is found in rock so hard that little expensive timbering is needed.

This district isn't new. Between 1900 and 1910 attempts to produce lead failed. In 1914, government experts said it would take from 30 to 40 tons of ore to produce one ton of concentrate. It had its ups and downs during World War I.

However, metal shortages in World War II led the U. S. Bureau of Mines back to the area for new surveys. This time diamond drilling equipment was used. This unearthed the big discoveries. But it took 1,250,000 feet of drilling, from 1943 to 1945. The Korean war gave the area its big start.

It is a most stupid thing for Western powers to hold onto their economic interests and in turn Russia—Generalissimo Chiang lose the friendly peoples to Soviet Kai-Shek.

There is no reason to feel that the economy would collapse even if defense spending were reduced even more than planned.—Secretary of Commerce Charles Sawyer.

Good Evening . . .

By OLINT DUNATHAN

ELECTRIC SIDELIGHTS—About 36 persons attended the meeting to discuss the problem of solving the Delta area's electric power problem.

The meeting was held in Escanaba city council chamber in City Hall with all of the councilmen present. Also attending were representatives of the City of Gladstone, the Alger-Delta Cooperative Electric Association, and the Mead Corporation.

J. H. Cunningham, Chillicothe, O., Mead Corporation controller, presented the Corporation's position in the matter. Mead, if you do not know, is the parent concern for Escanaba Paper Company and the Upper Michigan Power & Light Company.

Mead Corporation is in the business of producing paper—not electricity. It wants to get out of the latter field altogether. And thereby hangs the problem.

SUPPLY AND DEMAND—Without going deeply into the subject, it is sufficient to point out that Escanaba, Gladstone, and the Alger-Delta Cooperative Electric Association are dependent for their electric supply upon Mead Corporation.

Natural question might be: Why can't electric power be transmitted here from other power sources?

The answer is not encouraging. Nearest transmission line of Wisconsin-Michigan Power Company is near Cornell, but that line is not sufficient to meet the load for the two cities.

To the east the other big power company is Edison Sault Electric. Its highlines end at Manistique.

The solution is either to spend a large amount of money for transmission extensions (if the suppliers were agreeable), or to establish an electric power plant in the Delta area.

NEEDS ITS OWN—Cunningham told the group, as they have been told before, that Mead Corporation is planning extensive expansion of the Escanaba Paper Company mill. This will mean that what electric power is now produced will be needed for paper making.

The cities and the Alger-Delta Cooperative must find some other power source—and as soon as possible.

Delay will mean postponement of the Paper Mill expansion.

A local delegation on a recent trip to Washington, D. C., was favorably received by Rural Electrification Administration when they asked for a loan to construct a power plant here—but REA money would be available only for a plant to serve the rural areas. The cities, however, could purchase the surplus power.

THE DISCUSSION—All of the local officials should concentrate on getting a power plant project going, Cunningham said.

"If the REA can do it, let's try to hurry it along," he added.

"That is being done," replied Wynand Nieuwenkamp, Gladstone, Alger-Delta Cooperative Electric manager.

"It is my understanding that under the REA loan plan, the Alger-Delta Cooperative would be supplied 100 per cent and the cities could buy the surplus," said Escanaba City Manager A. V. Aronson.

"What is the position of the cities about going into this project?" Cunningham asked.

"The big question before the cities, as I see it, is this—will the surplus be sufficient to meet the cities' needs?" Aronson replied.

Nieuwenkamp said he believes it will be. Yet to be completed, however, is a survey and forecast of the anticipated electric load being made by the Alger-Delta Cooperative. This information will be submitted to REA with the loan application.

THE ALTERNATIVE—Cunningham, a tenacious gentleman who sought some expression of intention from the representatives, asked another question.

What if the REA loan is not available? What would the cities do then?

"The cities should be prepared to go ahead and build their own plants or plant," said Escanaba City Manager Aronson. "When that time comes I will recommend to the Escanaba City Council that we go ahead."

Out of the discussion came better understanding—not only of the problem involved but the necessary steps for its solution. The Delta area may undergo a temporary electric power shortage but it will never become "power-starved."

Power With Words

By Dr. C. E. Funk

In these days when our chemists build up the names of chemical compounds to inconceivable lengths by adding syllable upon syllable to derive terms that are intelligible only to themselves, it is rather pointless to parade other words of considerable length. Some folks have the hobby of collecting such things, however, so we'll review the longest words in the language this once.

Chemical dictionaries will reveal such compounds as paroxymetamethoxybenzene and tetrahydroparamethoxyquinoline, and chemical journals carry even more startling terms, some even with figures interspersed here and there. But these are, in reality, chemical formulas, rather than words.

The word most frequently cited as the longest in English literature is honorificabilitudinitatibus, a word of 22 letters. This is to be found in Shakespeare's "Love's Labor's Lost," act V, scene 1, line 44. And at about the same time that Shakespeare coined that, an English clergyman gave us innumerable words, of equal length. This has, at least, some meaning, which Shakespeare's did not.

William Gladstone, the statesman, came out with disestablishmentarianism, besting Shakespeare by two letters, to signify belief in an act that was aimed at the disestablishment of the Church of Ireland. But a Dr. Benson then added four to Gladstone's record with antidisestablishmentarianism. I have not gone into the subject deeply enough to know whether a later record has been established.

Put Giblets In Fluffy Stuffing

CRANBERRY SALAD WEDGES bearing the names of guests written in cream cheese are used to garnish this Thanksgiving turkey.

By GAYNOR MADDOX
The heart, liver and gizzard of turkey have many uses. Treat them well.

The giblets (gizzard, heart and liver)—The neck is usually included with the giblets—in cooking and in the use of the meat. The cooked meat—diced, chopped or ground—and the broth are added to the gravy or the stuffing, or used in other "made" dishes. To prepare the giblets and neck, cook in seasoned water until gizzard is fork tender, 2 1/2 to 3 hours. Refrigerate unless used immediately.

Fluffy Giblet Stuffing
(Yield: Stuffing for a 14-pound ready-to-cook turkey)

One and one-half pounds white bread, 2 to 4 days old—to be grated, torn or cut into 1/2-inch dice; cooked giblets, finely chopped or ground; 1/4 cup finely chopped onion, 1/2 teaspoon pepper, 1 teaspoon poultry seasoning, 1 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/2 pound butter or margarine—to be cut into 1/4-inch dice, about 1 1/2 cup broth or milk.

Prepare bread according to favorite method and drop into large bowl. Add giblets, onion and seasonings. Toss to blend thoroughly.

Add the diced butter. Drizzle enough broth or milk over stuffing—tossing the mixture to blend evenly. Stuffing should be "damp" not wet. If necessary, add more seasoning to taste.

The following salad wedges, with the name of each guest written on them with cream cheese, make an unusual turkey garnish.

Cranberry Salad Wedges
(12 Wedges)

One package raspberry-flavored gelatin, 2 cups water, 1 can cranberry sauce—jellied or whole—1 orange, 2 medium grapefruit.

Heat 1 cup of the water to boiling and in it dissolve the gelatin. Add remaining 1 cup of water, cold. Chill until mixture begins to jell.

Meanwhile, crush cranberry sauce with a fork. Grind the orange, removing any seeds. Add cranberry sauce and orange to the raspberry gelatin. Cut the grapefruit in halves. Remove all pulp. Fill halves with cranberry salad mixture. Chill until firm. Cut each grapefruit half into 3 wedges. Note—To write names, use a decorator tube and softened cream cheese.

Jimmy Stewart Talks More As Fond Father

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD — With three years of marriage clocked off, James Stewart is a changed man. Or so his friends and associates would have you believe. They claim that Jimmy, once Hollywood's most noted and eligible bachelor, is different from the fellow we knew a few years ago.

For one thing, he talks. He had long been noted for such conversational gems as "Waal, shucks, I don't know about that." But when we had lunch together, he talked glowingly about his new family. It consists of his wife, Barbara, her two sons by a previous marriage, 6 and 8, and the twin Stewart daughters, 18 months.

Teens Toe Line For Better Walk

By ALICIA HART

When you teen-aged girls walk to school how do you carry your books? If you carry them in your arms hugged to your chest, your shoulders will become chronically dragged down and rounded.

Those heavy books should be in a bag and carried at your side like a suitcase or held under your arm like a brief-case. But don't always carry them on the same side of the body as this may cause one shoulder to drop below the other.

Whether you are carrying books or nothing at all, your body should be lined up straight. Feet tall, pull your body up tall, think of your head as reaching into the clouds. Then walk straight ahead without zigzagging, toes pointing in a straight line, your neck in line with your spine, and your legs moving from your hip joints, not your knee joints.

Your knees should feel relaxed, although they may feel rigid at first when you practice walking from the hips instead of the knees. Arms should not swing consciously but hang loosely at the sides close to the body, swinging not more than a few inches back and forth.

Feet should strike the ground lightly, heels first. They will not clump if your entire muscular structure, rather than your legs alone, is carrying you forward. Your stride should measure no longer than your foot's length if you are short or medium. It can be longer if you are tall. Don't lead with your head or shoulders but with your thighs and, for perfect body alignment, pull your coccyx under you.

A good exercise for getting your shoulders down where they belong and back on line with your earlobes is simply to shrug. Lift your shoulders high enough to touch your ears and then pull them back down. If you do this often enough, the shoulder muscles will become relaxed and it will be easy to keep them in proper position.

he wanted a baby sister." Jimmy explained. "So we had to arrange that for them. And you know something? It's amazing that each boy has claimed a sister for his own. We try to mix them up, but the boys insist on adopting one of the sisters apiece."

I asked Jimmy if he thought marriage has changed his life. He said he wouldn't be the judge of that. What about making adjustments? I had heard that after he was first married he would leave the house in the morning without saying goodby to anyone.

"Now that's a press agent's story if I ever heard one," he replied indignantly. But after reflection, he added: "I guess that did happen once. I got up and left the house without saying a word to anyone. When I got halfway to the studio, I realized what I had done. I had to stop and telephone home to make apologies."

Spills Profits
The Indiana, Pa., actor was really more at ease talking about his career, rather than his personal life. He was the pioneer in the split-the-profit picture deals which other stars have flocked to.

That's the deal whereby the star works for no salary, but takes 50 per cent of the profits of his picture. It has reportedly brought Stewart payments of over a half-million dollars apiece for pictures like "Winchester 73" and "Bend of the River." He is currently making "Thunder Bay" on the same basis. That's a story about tidelands oil, filmed largely at Morgan City, La.

Cross And Candle Design Of Seals Going Out Monday

A double-barred cross and a glowing candle in an old fashioned brass candle holder are on the 1952 tuberculosis Christmas Seals, which will be delivered to approximately 2000 Delta County homes beginning Monday, Nov. 17.

A study of records and statements of the Michigan Tuberculosis Association spells out this story: Christmas Seals are paper bullets against tuberculosis. The dollars raised keep up year-around efforts, as well as state and national TB programs.

Past dollars led to discovery and promotion of ways to find, treat and rehabilitate victims of TB. They led to raising the general level of good health, both in Delta County, Michigan and the nation. They saved lives. They prevented sickness.

But TB is far from licked. Sanatoriums are full. Only a small percent of adults have a yearly chest x-ray, leaving many cases undetected. Rehabilitation programs for patients face a struggle to reach full value. Some health teaching programs are in infant stages, and without the spread of information, the advance grinds to a standstill. This is just a sketch of the battles ahead.

There is no known knock-out blow in prospect. But arrival of the seals with the candle-lit cross will give Escanaba area families an opening to help Delta County score again against tuberculosis next year.

"Buy Christmas Seals" is a simple way to put it. "Buy Generously," is even better.

AS WE LIVE

Happy Marriage Needs Maturity, Like Cultures

By Elizabeth B. Burck, Ph.D.
There have been many studies made of the effects of differences on the happiness of marriages. These differences relate to nationality, religion, education, social and economic backgrounds, etc. How do such differences affect marriage is the question asked by this young girl:

(Q) "I am 16 and have been dating a fellow of 19 for several years. We were very happy until now. My mother and father will not let me date him because his religion and nationality differ from mine. They have told me to find someone of our own kind. I have gone out with boys of my own kind, but it's not the same. He's willing to change his religion but his nationality will always be the same. I would like us all to be happy. Please tell me what to do."

(A) You and this boy are too young to consider marriage now. Until you are mature enough in your judgements and in your ability to take responsibilities, you will be wise to date other boys to see if you are making a wise decision about this boy.

First and foremost, there is the matter of both your parents. How do the boy's parents feel about you? Have they the same objections your parents have about their son? If so, it would make a difficult situation all around if you should marry him.

Then there is the matter of family customs. Every nationality has its own ways of living, relating to food, position of wife and children in the family, celebration of holidays, rearing children, etc. Would these differences, arising from the fact that you and he are of different nationalities, be a source of concern to you both?

And, finally, you must think in terms of your friends and his. How do they feel about religious and nationality differences? Would friends on both sides mix well or would one of you have to sacrifice your friends for the sake of the other? These are just a few of the complications that arise from marriages such as you are contemplating. Ponder them carefully before you make a final decision.

If you have a problem about family or friend, ask Dr. Hurlock to help you. Write in care of this newspaper.

Mrs. Amundsen Is New President Of Church Women

Mrs. Louis Amundsen was elected president of the United Church Women at the World Community Day service held Friday afternoon at the First Presbyterian Church.

Mrs. E. J. Eden is 1st vice president, Mrs. William Leiper, 2nd vice president, Mrs. George Ruwisch, recording secretary, Mrs. A. J. Schmeltzer, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Alex Cathcart, treasurer.

The theme of the observance was "Building Lasting Peace" and contributions were made of "Packets of Peace," clothing for infants and children through 6 years.

Featuring the service was a play, "Guest In the House," written and directed by Mrs. James H. Bell. The play stressed that in the struggle to build peace all racial prejudice must be wiped out, especially that existing close to home, and taught the moral lesson that peace will come only when the spirit of brotherhood enters into every heart.

The invocation was given by the Rev. James H. Bell and music during the offertory was played by Mrs. M. H. Garrard Jr. The offering is given to sustain the work which the United Church Women are doing among migrants and telling of this welfare project, Mrs. Merritt Kasson, retiring president, stated that next to California Michigan has the largest number of migrant workers in the country.

A social hour and tea followed the service. Mrs. Kasson was chairman of the day.

LUDINGTON BUY-LINES

by Sue Donizius

IN an argument the best weapon to hold is the tongue—especially if it's sharp. And when you want to look sharp, the best weapon you can use is a clean, well pressed appearance. You know how some people look pretty natty when they first get a new suit, but after awhile they lose the crisp, immaculate touch. I guess you could say their dressing is "spotty." The NuWay Cleaners can cure those up and down in your appearance if you'll give them a frequent opportunity to use their superior dry cleaning methods. It's time to be getting holiday clothes in order, so better phone for a pick up soon. If you're tired of the old way of sloppy, careless grooming, try the NuWay to a sparkling appearance!

SOME things go without saying—but never a woman. Some plaques go without sayings—but not the Swedish tiles at Eden's Gift Shop! These little Swedish verses plus bright peasant designs make these glossy tiles really gay. Six inches square, the tiles are backed with felt so that they may be used as table hot pads; and they are also fitted with hangers to make them attractive wall plaques. The permanent decorations are covered with a rich glaze. Cost you only $2.00. Other tiles of the same size with fruit, birds, poinsettias, and Merry Christmas designs are only $1.25. Take the heat off that Christmas shopping with a tile from Eden's.

AND then there was the moron who tried to climb into a mail box because he said he couldn't express himself. You can express yourself very nicely to that serviceman with a box of Russel Stover candy from the People's Drug Store. Two generous sized boxes are packed in sturdy cartons, all ready for shipment: $1.75 or $3.00. Delicious chocolate assortments, hard or soft centers, chewy, pecan delights—so many kinds to choose from. Russel Stover's is the candy that sends you—so why not send some? Try some for your own Thanksgiving table, too, which you will decorate, of course, with the new candles I saw at the People's Drug Store!

DON'T you care, darling, what your husband will say about that off-the-shoulder dress; you just grin and bare it! A little black taffeta jacket can cover up for you in moments of discretion. The flaring skirt with its side inlets of bronze and black stripes gives the frock a real party air. I found this precious number at Gartner's. . . they have a whole shipment of new holiday clothes. Black velvet forms the top on another black taffeta, and it accents a delicious aqua blue taffeta dress, too. A bright red cummerbund slashes across another black dress; the top is sheer wool with long bat wing sleeves—the skirt, a million taffeta gores! Gartner's are sure to have that dress for a certain party—you!

DON'T gamble with last minute Thanksgiving baking. It takes a lot of crust to think you can prepare a big turkey dinner and also bake delicious pumpkin or mince meat pies. Thompson's Bakery can become your hired girl for the big dinner by turning out succulent pies and mouth watering dinner rolls. You'll like the wonderful homemade flavor of those pies—little individual ones or the regular large size. There are parker house, clover leaf, poppy seed, hard rolls. . . so many delicious choices. To make sure everyone at your table is well bread, shop at Thompson's! Mama should do all that baking! No dice!

I always thought Gary Cooper was quite a boy. Now he stars in "Springfield Rifle" and really proves he has gunning little ways. Here's a powerful story of a rugged frontiersman who's entrusted with a shipment of guns. A woman and a rifle help him to hold out against a bunch of hi-jackers. . . and give the story a terrific wallop. Phyllis Thaxter and David Brian have important roles; and the sons of two famous actors of a few years ago also appear—Lon Chaney and Alan Hale, Jr. Looks like they cut their teeth high and shot the works! "Springfield Rifle" will be shown at the Michigan Theater Sunday thru Wednesday. Hope you're aimin' to go!

"THE LAST ADVERTISEMENT WAS PRINTED YESTERDAY"

*What Would the World
Be Like If It Were TRUE?*

THE last advertisement was printed yesterday. You have cut it out and put it away to show your grandchildren. With it, a way of living as you knew it, has passed forever.

Tonight you will want to see a movie. You pull up to one—saw it last week. At another—but no, you don't like So-and-So's acting. Let's go home. It's too much gas and time to waste on a show. Next month half the theaters will close. Poor attendance.

Tomorrow you will want some groceries. You will go to the nearest grocery store and buy some. Rib roast, perhaps, and lima beans. You won't hear until tomorrow night at the bridge table that the store just next door was having a "special" on rib roast and lima beans. Pretty soon your husband will wonder why the food bills are so high. The last advertisement was printed yesterday.

Next month is Aunt Jane's birthday. Well, if you think I'm going to spend half a day tramping from store to store looking for a gift that I used to find by turning a page — can't afford gifts anyway. We're spending money like water and living like poor folks . . .

Old car's wearing out. Can't afford a new one . . . Chevies and Fords are both $3500 . . . demand's fallen off . . . they've had to up prices to meet plant expenses. Most of the others have closed down . . . don't know how the government will feed all the new unemployed.

Fellow in Milwaukee is inventing color television to sell for $50. No one will hear of it. You will never see it. What is color television anyway? The last advertisement was printed yesterday.

Advertising has brought us many things. Finer cars, better homes, silly fads and wonderful inventions that have made life easier—and longer. Advertising is no unmixed blessing. But it has helped give America a standard of living unmatched in any other place and time. That standard of living should persist as long as people have wants to fill and money to spend and eyes to read with.

It will persist only so long as the presses keep rolling.

The Loganport

Handsome And Truly Different

Rooms ..... Eight
Bedrooms ..... Four
Closets ..... Eight
Cubage ..... 37,000 ft.
Dimensions ..... 50' x 27'

Because it is such a handsome house with such a strikingly different style, "The Loganport" will be a distinctive decorative asset in any neighborhood; it will be equally "at home" on level or sloping ground. An abundance of windows greatly enhances the overall appearance of the house. Bay windows plus the small but decorative window looking out on the front terrace add greatly to the appeal of the front of "The Loganport."

Measuring 50' x 27', this house requires at least a 70 foot lot. Cubage of "The Loganport" is 37,000 feet. A front facing of fieldstone and a clapboard finish in the rest of the house seem best to bring out the distinctive architectural features of this charming home.

Both the front terrace and the entryway itself can be made as attractive as the home owner desires. Appropriate plantings such as small, friendly shrubs and bushes and the addition of distinctive little 'extras' such as an old-fashioned lantern above the front door, can do much to give the front of "The Loganport" a real personality.

Centrally located on the first floor of the house, the library is a pleasant, well lighted room containing three windows. Bookshelves line the front wall of the room. There also are bookshelves built into the two back corners of the room; thus, the family that lives in "The Loganport" will have no excuse for leaving books laying around on tables, couches etc.

If preferred, this room designated as a library could serve as a den or as a guest room. The homemaker can have the room serve two purposes if she so desires.

Although a two car garage is specified in the accompanying plan, a one car garage can be constructed instead. Such an arrangement should, of course, be made with the building contractor before actual construction is started.

Welcome features in "The Loganport" are the two bathrooms on the second floor. These baths will be especially appreciated during the morning rush by the large family living in this comfortable, well-planned home.

Both the heating plant and the laundry should be installed in the basement of "The Loganport."

Blueprints Available
Complete plans and specifications for this house and all other "Home of the Week" designs are available at moderate cost.

For plan prices, write to the Home Building Editor, Dept. 15, Daily Press, and enclose a self-addressed, 3 cent stamped envelope. Allow 7 to 10 days for a reply.

RAPID GROWER
The fastest-growing tree known is the balsa. The seed is little larger than a pinhead, yet the tree often sprouts to a height of 75 feet and a diameter of 25 inches within five years.

Vegetable oils may become more important than petroleum in the economy of the southwest. They come from crops which are renewable each year, while petroleum comes from a source that cannot be replenished.

Chinese Reds Not Using Gas Shells, U. S. Expert Reports

SEOUL (AP)—A U. S. chemical warfare expert called unfounded South Korean soldiers' charges that Chinese Reds used gas shells against them on Sniper Ridge.

Lt. Col. Harrison A. Markham said after an investigation at the front that one South Korean was made ill by fumes of picric acid. Such fumes are a by-product of artillery shell explosions, particularly if the explosive powder is old.

Excavation Yields Old Roman Villa

VIENNA (AP)—Busy earthworms recently led to the discovery of the remnants of an old Roman home near Petronell, an Austrian village on the highway to Budapest, 15 miles east of Vienna.

A party of Austrian scientists digging for a buried Roman city noticed tiny particles of colored earth pushed to the surface by earthworms. Assuming that the color came from murals of a buried building, the group dug up the remains of a 30-yard-wide 2-story Roman villa.

The villa is believed to be part of a "city" attached to the ancient Roman fort of Carnuntum, which was excavated by Austrian scientists before the first world war.

Urge Savings For Vacations

To encourage more family vacations, the Northern Great Lakes Area Council is encouraging banking institutions to adopt vacation savings plans. The movement is designed to stimulate the systematic saving of vacation funds by individuals and family groups.

Members of the council, who are joined together in promoting the tourist and vacation advantages of Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, and the Province of Ontario, declared at their recent semi-annual meeting that a family vacation is as important an item as any now being purchased by the family. They cited its influence in binding families closer together, and its contribution to both the health and happiness of the family unit. Without a savings plan, a spokesman of the Council pointed out, too many families are unable to avail themselves of a vacation because of their failure to systematically reserve funds throughout the year for an annual family outing.

Vacation savings plans are designed to encourage the weekly saving of funds in a manner similar to the familiar and popular Christmas Club savings plans. Deposits in a vacation club program begin in the summer periods, usually immediately following a vacation. The amounts deposited periodically into this fund vary according to a vacationer's individual budget.

Discussions to urge the immediate organization of vacation savings plans are now being held with banks and building loan companies in various cities throughout the midwest by members of the Northern Great Lakes Area Council. Initial interviews with banking officials indicate there is considerable interest for such savings plans among family units in various income brackets.

One Injured In Four Accidents

One person was injured in a series of four accidents Thursday and early Friday, according to reports received from Michigan State Police who investigated the accidents.

Mrs. Henry Seymour, Rapid River, received a bruised chest when an auto driven by her husband in which she was a passenger collided with a car driven by J. Bresnahan, Detroit, on Highway 2-41 in Masonville township Thursday morning about 8:30. Mrs. Seymour received treatment at the office of a local physician and was released.

The Kelley ambulance driven by John Strand was damaged considerably Thursday morning when it was struck by a truck driven by Joseph Starnes, Battle Creek, at Whitefish Hill. According to the state police accident report Starnes crossed the centerline of the highway forcing the ambulance off the road. Starnes was ticketed for driving on the wrong side of the road and paid a fine of $10 and costs in the court of Justice of Peace A. T. Sohlsberg.

Autos driven by Gustav A. Johnson, Ionia, and Martin Jacques, Saginaw, collided on US-2 about 12 miles east of Ensign. Johnson hit the Jacques car in the rear. Both were about to pass another car when Jacques applied his brakes and swung back into his own lane. Johnson was unable to stop fast enough and hit the Jacques auto. There was considerable damage to the front of the Johnson auto but the Jacques car got off lightly. There were no injuries and no tickets were issued.

A single car accident occurred Friday morning at 12:47 a. m. when an auto driven by Lawrence E. Wash, 4801 Audubon St., Detroit failed to make the curve at the Rapid River "Y" as he drove south on US-41 and went through the guard rail. The lower front and undercarriage of the auto was damaged. There were no injuries. No traffic ticket was issued.

Aged Resident Dies Thursday

Carl John Bloom, 96, passed away at 9:45 p. m. Thursday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Ronald Fiegel, 719 Manistique Ave., where he had resided for many years.

He was born in Varmland, Sweden, on Dec. 18, 1855, and came to the United States in 1890, settling first in Massachusetts. Later he moved to St. Louis, Mo., where he resided for a short time before locating on a farm near Ashland, Wis. He moved to Escanaba in 1919 and in 1933 moved to Manistique to reside with his daughter.

He was married to Miss Anna Grundstrom in Sweden in 1877. Mrs. Bloom died in 1929.

During most of his active years he was a farmer and blacksmith. He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Ronald (Edna) Fiegel, Manistique, and Mrs. Elida Switzer, of Miami, Fla.; four sons, Gus Bloom, Manistique, Olof, Geseola, Wis., August, St. Croix Falls, Wis., and Albert, Mound, Minn.; 15 grandchildren, 20 great grandchildren, and two great great grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 1:30 p. m. Monday from the Messier-Broullier Funeral Home, with the Rev. Edgar M. Smith, of the First Methodist Church, officiating. Burial will be made in Lakeview cemetery in Escanaba.

Friends may call at the funeral home.

Local Student Has Feminine Lead Role In College Comedy

Catherine Sherman, of Manistique, who is a student at Northern Michigan College of Education, Marquette, had the feminine lead in the comedy, "The Man Who Came to Dinner," which was presented by the Northern Michigan College Masquers Wednesday and Thursday nights under the direction of Martha Beaman.

The principal character in the play was portrayed by James Chillum, of Ishpeming.

Concerning Miss Sherman's part in the play, the review in the Marquette Mining Journal says:

"And not far behind, if at all behind, was Catherine Sherman as Whiteside's capable secretary. She, too, has a real talent for the stage—voice, inflection, grace and a thoroughly 'at home' manner that makes one forget that she's 'playingact'. In the couple of scenes where she 'tells off' her employer, we don't see how it could have been better done."

Miss Sherman is the daughter of the late Cora Sherman, of Newberry, and is now residing with Mr. and Mrs. J. Joseph Herbert, 728 Range St.

touchable. The Indian Constitution rules out all discrimination and lays down special guarantees of political and social equality which run for a decade.

But ancient custom is dying hard in the villages of rural India. As always, an orthodox high caste woman may throw away food handled by an untouchable. Untouchables remain apart, in segregated quarters at the village outskirts, low men socially and economically on the Hindu caste ladder.

Premier Neutral
Legislation putting teeth into the constitutional guarantees of equality may be introduced in current session of Parliament. If the government Congress party goes ahead with the bill and wins passage over high-caste opposition, acts of discrimination would become statutory punishable offenses for the first time.

However, the Nehru government's own official charged with protecting the rights of untouchables, L. M. Skrikant, opposes such a move. So far the Premier has not taken a personal stand in the behind-the-scenes controversy.

Skrikant, a businessman active in social welfare organizations sponsored by Brahmins and others of high caste for the advancement of the lower castes, advocated financial help for "non official groups working for the uplift of the scheduled castes and for the removal of untouchability."

He also urged greater emphasis on action by state governments, especially in compiling "a record of villages where Harijans are still suffering under social disabilities." The late Mahatma Gandhi gave untouchables the name Harijans, which literally means "children of God."

Have No Courage
Largely through the efforts of the Gandhian groups of high caste Hindus, most states have passed laws prohibiting interference with the use of wells and access to temples and other public places by Harijans. But Skrikant reports that "very few cases have been recorded in the courts of law for breach of the provisions of these acts."

The main reason, he explains, "is that Harijans have no courage to come forward either to draw water from the common wells or to go to public places, since they are generally economically dependent upon non-Harijans."

Economic discontent among the Harijans, who make up most of India's landless agricultural labor, is beginning to find political expression. Communist success in organizing landless untouchables in some areas was mainly responsible for South Indian Red victories in the general elections.

Kindergarten, 4th, 5th Grade Room Get Parent Awards

Miss Evelyn Berwin's fourth and fifth grade room and Mrs. Edmund LaFave's kindergarten of Lincoln and Riverside schools, respectively, received the award for having the largest percentage of parents present at the meeting of the Lincoln-Riverside PTA Thursday evening.

During the business session the group decided to purchase straws for both schools as well as the usual Christmas treats.

The next meeting of the PTA will be held on Jan. 8 and start with a 6:30 pot-luck supper.

Mrs. Dale Ott, membership chairman, reported 140 members at the present time. Others on this committee are Mrs. Harold Carlson and Mrs. Einar Larson.

Movie Shown

Preceding the business session, a movie, "Problem Children," from the Michigan Mental Health Clinic was shown with V. Anderson at the projector. The movie, taken in an Ohio school, dealt chiefly with two seventh grade boys, one an extrovert and the other an introvert. This school was typical of schools all over the country. The teacher was observant of the troubles of these children and through discussions with other teachers, cooperation of the parents and guardians and working directly with the children both of these boys became normal happy youngsters.

Mrs. L. E. Wilson, program chairman, announced the program numbers with appropriate remarks for each.

Miss Patricia Fagan, accompanied by Mrs. Virgil Henry, sang "It is No Secret," "I'll Hold You in my Arms," and "Red Wing."

Olson Speaker

Douglas Harding, local director of music in the public schools, sang, "Silent Worship" by Handl, "If I Loved You" from "Carousel" and "People Will Say I'm in Love" from "Oklahoma." He was accompanied by Miss Carol Martinson.

Carl Olson, principal of Manistique high school, was the speaker of the evening and he gave to an interested audience some enlightening facts on the school system in Sweden.

One of the differences noted was that while there is absolute religious freedom in Sweden, parents are required to see that their children have adequate training in religion.

"The American Slogan" "Better Schools mean Better Homes," said Mr. Olson, "has really worked for Sweden. There are no slums and all homes are well cared for."

Fine Health Program

In answering questions Mr. Olson stated that while taxes are high the balanced budget speaks for itself. The health program is not actually "Socialized Medicine" but a voluntary health program paid for by the people themselves.

Each entry must bear the contestant's name and grade on the reverse side, in lower left, and must be submitted to the library not later than Friday, Nov. 21. Judging will be done by high school teachers and winners will be announced on Monday, Nov. 24.

Other activities also will highlight the observance, library officials said, Next Monday Mrs. T. H. Reque's Brownie Scout troop will visit the library to view the procedures followed from the time a new book is received until it goes into circulation, including accessioning, classifying and cataloging.

Next Thursday several of the English classes will visit the book report section of the library and review proper methods of finding report and reference texts.

A new book display also has been arranged in the show window of Johnson Cleaners, S. Cedar St., where special biographies for adults and juveniles are shown.

In This Corner

With Ray Crandall

Brother, when you get through eating a Rotary Club football recognition dinner prepared and served by the Gladstone High School home economics class you know you've eaten. They tossed another banquet for the Gladstone Braves and Coach Harry Monson of Iron River the other night. Gus DeHooghe, quarterback on the 1928 Gladstone team which was also honored at the banquet, said: "I've got more room to put it than I did in 1928." But we noticed he slowed down a little towards the dessert.

Say, the coaches all took a crack at the sports writer at that banquet. Coach Don Pfothenauer of Gladstone, Coach Ken Radick of Menominee and Coach Monson all sharpened the needle for a little jab. Guess it's a good thing they didn't let Wally Strom, Pfothenauer's assistant, talk. He probably would have given it to us good.

Monson says the writers made a mistake when they named him the 1952 "Coach of the Year". They should have given the credit to his Iron River team, he says. Well, that might be, but when you win 22 of 24 ball games in three years—including two undefeated seasons—you've got something on the ball. Radick took a pot shot at some of the selections on the all-U. P. team and added: "I don't go along with the idea of naming one boy the best in the Peninsula at this position and another best at that."

We don't know who first said it, but we've heard a pretty good quote that applies to picking all-something teams. They give distinguished service medals to war heroes, don't they? That doesn't mean that every soldier who doesn't get a medal isn't a hero. The same with the all-U. P. selections. Because a boy isn't named to the first team doesn't mean that he isn't a good football player. And because a boy is named to the team doesn't mean that he's the best player in the Upper Peninsula. It merely means that the writers who saw him in action think he played outstanding football and that he deserves a little extra special honor.

It would be ridiculous to think that everyone would agree with any kind of an all-U. P. team. It just isn't possible. But we say again that it would be foolish to take the honor away from the boys who are selected on the team just because there are some darn good football players who don't get on it. Here's the way we always look at it: It's a great honor to make such a team, but it is in no way a discredit to a boy if he didn't make it.

Cappy Keil had a lot of fun reminiscing about the 1928 football team. They had a terrific record, beating Crystal Falls, Manistique, Ishpeming, Marquette, Norway and Escanaba. Only Manistique and Escanaba were able to score on the Braves, who by the way also won the U. P. track championship and almost copped the basketball title as well that year. Gladstone has quite a football record since 1923. In that time the Braves have won 127 games against 75 losses and 15 ties.

Billy Wells, the Menominee Meteor, now leads the Michigan State College grid team in rushing yardage. Wells has a total of 461 yards on 92 attempts for a 5.3 average per carry. He's scored five Spartan touchdowns. In addition he's caught three passes good for 63 yards.

St. Joe football fans won't be surprised to learn that the St. Norbert team—beaten by the Trojans 14-13 here this year—had itself a whale of a season. Coach Fred Dillon's Squires were unbeaten in their other six starts and won the Catholic Valley Conference championship for the fourth time in five years.

Lisle Blackburn, Marquette University football coach, will be the principal speaker at the annual Norway Moose Lodge gridiron banquet Dec. 27. Members of the 1952 all-U. P. team will be guests as will the "Coach of the Year". Also attending will be the football teams of Iron Mountain, Kingsford, Norway and Niagara and the Vulcan basketball team.

Ishpeming, king of Upper Peninsula basketball circles last season, will have two regulars back this year. Coach C. C. Watson, who was named "Coach of the Year" last season, lost Terry Thompson, Irwin Dubinsky, Donald Ameen and Tom Jenkins from last year's championship outfit.

Downstate Prep Grid Teams Close Season

(By The Associated Press)

The Big Reds of Port Huron High School showed a stunned Hazel Park team Friday night all the class that carried them to 19 straight victories, an undefeated 1952 season and the Eastern Michigan League title.

Port Huron scored a 41-0 win over the Hazel Park team that up to this week-end hadn't lost a conference game.

The Hazel Park visitors just never got inside the Big Reds' 40-yard line and coach Bob Hayes used all 32 men on his Port Huron squad. Frank Moeller scored two touchdowns on runs of 44 and 12 yards, and Alfred Davis also had a pair of TD's and kicked five extra points.

Three Unbeaten
Port Huron thus joined Ann Arbor and University of Detroit high among the big Class A schools that finished their regular seasons without a defeat or tie. Ann Arbor's Pioneers ended their scheduled last week. U. of D. downed Detroit Eastern for the city public school crown, but still must meet the winner of the parochial school race in the annual Goodfellow game next week.

Another Class A team, Plymouth, finished its perfect season by thumping Garden City 39-6. Morenci's little giants of Class C made Michigan prep grid history, whipping a good Hudson team 49-31 for victory No. 43 in a row. The longest previous undefeated string was 42 games put together by Charlevoix, and that one included three ties. Morenci, finishing its fourth perfect season, has won every one of its last 43 games.

Rare Crown
Bay City Central won its first Saginaw Valley League crown since 1931 with a 12-0 shutout of Flint Central. The league play runs for another week but Bay City, with a perfect conference record of five wins, has the title clinched.

Second-place Flint Northern was out of the running despite a 14-8 victory over Saginaw Arthur Hill, fashioned largely on halfback Leon Burton's fine play. Burton scored both Flint touchdowns, one on an 81-yard run.

Michigan's oldest high school football rivalry wound up its latest chapter with no decision when Kalamazoo and Battle Creek played to a 7-7 tie, the fourth in the series of games that started back in 1893.

TD Plays

Over the years, Kalamazoo has won 24 games and Battle Creek 21. In Friday night's tilt, Jim Yore scored for Battle Creek and Kalamazoo came back to tally on a pass from Dick Crawford to Dave Telfer.

Michigan's two top parochial met in Detroit, and substitute halfback Larry Endres of Grand Rapids Catholic Central led his team to a 35-7 win over Detroit Catholic Central.

In other leading games, Benton Harbor swamped Grand Rapids South 34-0, Alpena socked Hamtramck 28-19, Dearborn Fordson beat Dearborn 25-14, Lincoln Park made it 27-7 over Lowery, Grand Haven tripped Holland 26-14 and Pontiac downed Saginaw 18-7.

Clowns Beat Foxes By 59 to 43 Score

HERMANSVILLE—The Broadway Clowns colored travelling team tripped Rodman's Bar Foxes here 59-43 in an exhibition game last night.

In the preliminary A's Tavern of Escanaba beat Wallace 51-48 with Roy Johnson setting a 16-point scoring pace. Don Lewis contributed 15 and Jack Courneene 10 for the winners.

Ex-servicemen Bill Marker, Joe Berkich and Charles Donaldson at 25 are the oldest players on the West Virginia University football squad.

Grid Slate Today May Be Marred By Upsets

By JOE FALLS

NEW YORK (AP)—The nation's three top-ranking football teams—Michigan State, Georgia Tech and Maryland—were strong favorites to extend their impressive winning streaks today, but each was faced with a foe quite capable of springing an upset.

Top-ranked Michigan State (7-0) figured to have the roughest afternoon when it met a charged-up Notre Dame squad (5-1-1) at East Lansing, Mich.

Driving for their 23rd straight victory, the Spartans ruled a 13-point choice to stop the Irish, who last week stunned Oklahoma with a 27-21 upset.

Ranked Sixth

That shocker moved Notre Dame from 10th to sixth place among the nation's elite, and today the Irish not only sought to climb near the top, but went out to avenge last season's 35-0 drubbing to Michigan State.

A sellout crowd of 52,000 was expected to turn out for this collision of Midwest giants, and it was reported that speculators were getting as much as $70 for a pair of tickets.

However, the nation's TV fans could see—for free—the No. 2 team, Georgia Tech, in action against a rugged Alabama team in the Southland's top game at Atlanta.

The speedy Engineers (8-0), already picked to play in the Sugar Bowl, were meeting a formidable Alabama team 7-1 which also was looking for a bowl bid. The odds said Tech would win by at least 14 points.

Returns To Action

At Oxford, Miss., third-ranked Maryland (7-0) returned to action after a week's layoff and was a 13½-point favorite to hand Mississippi (6-0-2) its first loss of the season. This game figured to be a battle of offenses, with Maryland sporting an average of 28 points a game and Ole Miss 24½.

While these three powers fought to retain or improve their national ratings, other high-ranked teams hoped to drive nearer a spot in one of the New Year's Day bowl games.

The Rose Bowl representative from the Big 10 could be decided when 10th-ranked Purdue invaded Ann Arbor, Mich., to meet Michigan, No. 20 nationally. Despite the wide difference in rankings, Michigan was a slight choice—possibly because of the home field edge. Purdue was 3-0 in league play and Michigan 3-1.

Big Ten Test

And not to be overlooked in the Big 10 picture was the meeting at Bloomington, Ind., between Wisconsin 3-1 in league play and Indiana. Wisconsin was a 14-point pick.

The Pacific Coast Conference Rose Bowl host probably will be decided next week when fourth-ranked UCLA (8-0) meets fifth-ranked Southern California (7-0). In a warmup for the big game, Southern Cal met Washington today. UCLA was idle.

At least one team has been picked for the Cotton Bowl. The acceptance of Tennessee, seventh-ranked, was announced yesterday. Ninth-ranked Texas could qualify to meet the Vols by whipping TCU today. Tennessee, meanwhile, met Florida.

The other member of the top 10—eighth-ranked Oklahoma—was an 18-point favorite to stop Missouri and just about sew up the Big Seven title.

Bucceroni Takes Ring Win Over Danny Nardico In 10

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP)—Dangerous Dan Bucceroni, a lanky butcher boy from Philadelphia, has moved up the heavyweight ladder with a business-like job on game Danny Nardico of Tampa, Fla.

After a 40-day layoff, Bucceroni will be ready to mingle with the likes of Rex Layne and Roland LaStarza in the division now ruled by Rocky Marciano. He also would like to even an old score with Irish Bob Murphy, the only man to stop him in 42 pro fights.

Bucceroni won way off last night by himself—a unanimous decision on the cards of all three officials. Referee Ruby Goldstein, who penalized Bucceroni the eighth for a low blow, voted 8-2. So did Judge Art Aidala. Judge Charley Shortell saw it 6-3-1. The 6 card also was 8-2.

Hooks Hurt

In the early rounds it was all Bucceroni with his long arms slashing Nardico's rugged features. Left hooks thudded home time and again to Nardico's face. And then, when he covered against them, a right hand bruised his ribs.

But all the time, Nardico was crowding in, swarming to the attack, trying to get inside Bucceroni's flailing arms. Many of Nardico's blows rattled off the arms and elbows of Bucceroni. Many more were caught on his gloves. But some got home.

In the eighth Nardico hurt Bucceroni with a right to the jaw—his best punch of the fight. That was the round taken away from Bucceroni on a low blow but won by Nardico anyhow.

A smashing right over Nardico's left ear early in the 10th scored the only knockdown of the grueling fight. Nardico bounced up quickly but was dazed and hurt. Referee Goldstein took the automatic eight count and one more as he peered into Nardico's eyes. Then he let it continue as Nardico yelled, "I'm all right."

Late Rally

He was all right, too, as he staged a desperation rally against the tiring Bucceroni, who already knew he had the fight in his pocket. "He's a game kid", said Bucceroni. "I knew I had it won and I didn't want to hurt him any more."

Bucceroni took the bout on four days notice as a sub for Jake LaMotta who "didn't feel good." He was a 2-1 favorite in the nationally televised bout witnessed by only 4,874 paying $15.93.

Bruised around both eyes and with a badly swollen left ear, Nardico had no excuses in his dressing room.

"I didn't think he had that much in him," said Nardico. "I trained for a short guy (La Motta) and a different style. Every time I looked up those long arms were coming at me. He's kinda cute inside too."

Television Offers Top Gridiron Clash

By MERCER BAILEY

ATLANTA (AP)—Georgia Tech, headed for its first perfect season since 1928, and Alabama, which would like nothing better than to smear Tech's record, clashed today in television's football game of the week.

The scrap offered just about everything the most critical football fan could ask. Tech already has been tapped for the Sugar Bowl and is the No. 2 team in the nation. Alabama, beaten only by Tennessee, is a strong contender for a bowl bid and ranks 12th.

14 Points

The Engineers, who haven't been beaten since Bama routed them 54-19 two years ago, were a 14-point favorite in Atlanta.

Detroit Passer Breaks Record

DETROIT (AP)—Ted Marchibroda, Detroit's sharpshooting scattergun passer, didn't realize he had a chance to better college football's all-time passing record—and thus almost missed out.

Informed press box observers were squirming with frustration when Marchibroda, on the brink of breaking the record, called nine straight running plays in the fourth period.

Suddenly he started thriving again. And when the game ended, the Franklin, Pa., youth had thrown for 390 net yards—18 more than the record set last year by Don Klosterman of Loyola.

Despite Marchibroda's efforts, Detroit lost 61-21 to Tulsa.

Football Scores

Tulsa 62, Detroit 21.
Miami 33, Steubenville 0.
George Washington 46, Davidson 13.

Spartans Face Sucker Shift

EAST LANSING (AP)—Michigan State, holder of the nation's top collegiate offense record, today sends its crack backfield against Notre Dame's so-called "sucker shift" in what is certain to be a poll shaking gridiron battle.

The Spartans, ranked No. 1 in the weekly Associated Press football poll, tangle with Frank Leahy's sixth ranking Notre Dame squad in a game pointed with "ifs," prestige, and controversy.

The so-called "sucker shift" successfully used by the Irish against Oklahoma last week has sent interest and ticket prices soaring for the contest—a 50,000 seat sellout weeks ago.

The Irish used the shift to tumble previously unbeaten Oklahoma last week. The shift from the T-formation to the single wing lured Oklahoma linemen offside and in one instance led to a five yard penalty that set up a Notre Dame touchdown.

Michigan State Coach Biggie Munn said "It will be up to today's officials to decide if the sudden shift is legal." Munn denied a newspaper report that he had questioned the legality of the shift.

Despite requests from Michigan State and Notre Dame officials, the game will not be televised. The NCAA denied the request—partially because it would cut into attendance at the Michigan-Purdue Big Ten clash at Ann Arbor, only 60 miles away.

As a result scalpers have been peddling tickets for $70 a pair. The stadium press box supposed to seat 280 will be jammed with 400 newsmen.

Bartell Retires From Baseball

ALAMEDA, Calif. (AP)—Dick Bartell, bounced as coach when Red Rolfe was fired as manager of the Detroit Tigers last July, says he's retiring from baseball.

Bartell, former major league shortstop and second baseman, said last night he was going to be associated with a motor company, Packard agency in nearby Berkeley. Both Bartell and Rolfe were paid for the full year by Detroit after they were cut loose.

The peppery Bartell broke into the major leagues as a player with Pittsburgh of the National League in 1927. He also played with Philadelphia, New York and Chicago of the National League and Detroit of the American. He participated in three world series and two all-star games.

After ending his playing career in the majors, he served as manager of Sacramento of the Pacific Coast League and Kansas City of the American Association, before becoming a Detroit coach.

No Change Likely In Pro Grid Race

NEW YORK (AP)—If there is any change among the leaders in the National Football League when the standings are posted Sunday night you can be sure that it is the work of an underdog.

For not one of the four leaders—Cleveland and New York in the American Conference and San Francisco and Detroit in the National—face an opponent that figures to win. The big four have identical five and two records. Cleveland's Browns and New York's Giants, rapidly heading toward a show down on Dec. 14 at the Polo Grounds, entertain the Pittsburgh Steelers and the Green Bay Packers, respectively. Off the records the Giants face the sternest test since the Packers have won four of their seven games while the Steelers have been successful with their single wing attack in only two of seven.

Big Ten Lead On Line Today

ANN ARBOR (AP)—The favorite's role in the hot Big Ten football race was at stake here today as Michigan and Purdue clashed before an anticipated crowd of 55,000 fans.

Purdue, currently leading the league with three victories and a tie with Minnesota, could emerge as the top heavy favorite to defeat Indiana next week and win the championship.

For Michigan, defeated only by Illinois in its four conference starts, a victory would mean at least a tie for league leadership with Wisconsin going into the Nov. 22 finale against Ohio State. Michigan and Wisconsin are currently tied behind Purdue.

With both teams in top physical condition, the Boilermakers rated a one-point underdog to the ambitious Wolverines.

But most fans figured the game a tossup to be decided either by Purdue's passing quarterback Dale Samuels, top thrower in the Big Ten, or Michigan's triple threat halfback, Ted Kress.

Morenci Runs Streak To 43 Gridiron Wins

NUDSON (AP)—Little Morenci ran its consecutive win streak to 43—longest in Michigan high school football history—by whipping Hudson, 49-31 last night in one of the highest scoring games of the season.

Hudson jumped into a 13-7 lead in the first period, but halfback Jim Lenz returned the following kickoff 80 yards for a score and Gene Staelens kicked the extra point to put Morenci ahead to stay. The score was 33-19 at the half.

Morenci, a Class C (not more than 324 students) school, hasn't been beaten since it lost the first game of the 1948 season to Hillsdale.

Akron Offer To Stage Dallas Game Refused

AKRON, O. (AP)—The National Football League has turned down an Akron offer to stage the Chicago Bears-Dallas Texans game here Nov. 30.

The game was scheduled to be played at Dallas until the Texans forfeited their franchise and the league took over the team.

Bill Griffiths, Akron sports promoter, and the Akron Chamber of Commerce offered to hold the game here.

Bert Bell, league commissioner, told Griffiths by telephone he would be reluctant to "saddle any promoter or sponsoring group with the responsibility of selling this game in the short time permitted."

Dick Kryhoski, first baseman for the St. Louis Browns, served on the aircraft carrier Ticonderoga during World War II.

Olympians Find Win Column In Cage Leap

(By The Associated Press)
The tide seems to be turning for the Indianapolis Olympians in the National Basketball Association. They have won their last two games after dropping their first five starts.

A second half spurt gave the Olympians a 77-71 victory over the Philadelphia Warriors Friday night in the league's only game.

Bob Lavey provided Indianapolis with the scoring impetus by tallying all but four of his 17 points in the last two periods. Leo Barnhorst contributed 15 points for the Olympians and lanky Neil Johnston topped Warrior scoring with 13 points.

Committee Of College Presidents Disbands

WASHINGTON (AP)—The 11 college presidents who joined forces against what they called sports over-emphasis are disbanding—"highly encouraged" by results of their year-long campaign.

"You couldn't say the reaction has been sensational," Committee Secretary Raymond F. Howes said Friday, "but we have made a lot of small gains and the total gain is very impressive."

The committee, a special division of the American Council on Education, was organized last November to study the role of college presidents in shaping their schools' athletic programs.

The committee program, adopted by the full council, aimed at toning down emphasis on college athletics. It suggested, among other things, the outlawing of football bowl games and spring practice.

Driving Lessons
DENVER (AP)—When a startled policeman saw an apparently driverless car go through a stop sign, he took off in pursuit and forced it to the curb.
To his surprise he found a 7-year-old girl at the wheel and a 55-year-old man beside her. The man, a partly paralyzed veteran of World War I, said he was without reach of the driving controls and could have stopped the car at any time. The car was fitted with special driving controls to enable him to drive.
The young girl said she was getting her third driving lesson from the veteran who said he was a friend of her family. Police asked her not to take any more driving lessons until she was old enough.
Nevada was the first in the world to use gas for capital punishment.

Court To Reopen Here Nov. 24

The October term of Circuit Court will be reopened here Nov. 24 when Presiding Judge Glenn W. Jackson returns to hear cases that were passed during the busy two weeks' session ended last week.

Judge Jackson notified County Clerk Mary Constantineau this morning that he would resume court the week of Nov. 24 to 29 for the hearing of non-jury civil and chancery cases only. He said that it would not be necessary to summon the October term jurors because he planned to try no jury cases.

Work in the regular term from Oct. 27 to Nov. 7 consisted mainly of the jury trial of two defendants in criminal cases.

Argentina Slaps Little Uruguay

By DREW PEARSON

Behind Argentina's present loud quarrel with Uruguay lies the story of Dictator Peron's most ignominious defeat in his many attempts to meddle with Latin-American countries.

A few months ago, workers of ANCAP, a Uruguayan government agency which controls alcohol, tobacco, etc., went on strike for a 30 per cent wage boost. Behind the strike was the labor attaché of the Argentine embassy. ANCAP workers wanted a 12 per cent raise, but the Argentine attaché pointed out that workers in Peron's state trading monopoly had just won a 35 per cent pay hike and urged them to follow suit.

From the moment the Uruguayan walkout began, Argentine "diplomats" behaved as if it were their own strike. Strategy meetings of the strike committee were even held at the Argentine embassy. Handbills, newspaper ads, and radio time were paid for from Buenos Aires.

Meanwhile the Uruguayan government gave the overzealous Argentines all the rope they needed to hang themselves. This eventually happened. Argentina became so flagrant and aggressive that most of the strikers resented it.

At this point the Uruguayan government played its two trump cards. The Argentine labor attaché was declared persona non grata, and the ANCAP workers were given their choice of getting back on the job within 48 hours at a flat 10 per cent rise, or being fired.

The double strategy worked. The strikers gladly went back to work, openly blaming Argentina for the delayed settlement. Argentine prestige in Uruguay took a terrific nose dive—and the one truly Democratic regime left in all South America was strengthened.

Peron Flares Back

But the glib gaucho is not one to take such a humiliating setback lightly. He had been boldy confident that his bully-boys could muscle in on the Uruguayan labor movement through the ANCAP strike, and soon dominate all Uruguayan labor.

So he took revenge on a handy scapegoat at home. Jose Espejo, secretary - general of the captive Argentine Unions' Federation, was unceremoniously fired for his failure to "manipulate" the Uruguayan situation. (Actually he had nothing to do with it.)

Then, a few days ago, came the chance Peron long had wanted to hit directly at the little republic across the Plata River.

The Falkland Islands are a barren archipelago in the South Atlantic, occupied and administered by Great Britain for the past 131 years. However, Argentina has persistently claimed jurisdiction over them.

A few Uruguayans live in the Falklands—called the Malvinas by the Buenos Aires government, which will not accept mail carrying British Falkland Islands stamps. So, for the past seven years, Uruguay has maintained a vice-consulate at Port Stanley, the archipelago's administrative seat. Argentina never made any complaint.

Hate Campaign

But suddenly, after Uruguay and England signed a new sea-and-air navigation treaty confirming the status of the Uruguayan vice-consul, Peron turned all his hounds loose. An unprecedented hate campaign against Uruguay sprang forth in the entire Argentine-controlled press.

Uruguay was charged with a "grossly unfriendly act" that "ignored our sacred rights of sovereignty and every anti-colonial resolution adopted by the Pan-American fraternity" during the past quarter century.

Travel to Uruguay was sharply restricted—just as the South American summer approaches. Thus the tourist season that normally brings substantial spending by thousands of Argentine visitors was curtailed.

Then came an order prohibiting Argentine ocean-going vessels

With Deer Hunters Camp And Trail News

Charles Burton Jr. believes in keeping it in the family. His dad got the first reported buck in Gladstone last year and 15-year-old Chuck repeated this season. He brought down an eight-point, 160-pounder with a neck shot at 8:35 this morning. Chuck and his dad were hunting on the Stonington peninsula.

Hunters from Lower Michigan, Chicago and this area are with Chuck Johnston and his wife Lorraine at Johnston camp, "Brookview Lodge" in Dickinson County. In the party are Tony Gruettner, Dan Wilkins, Ted Hannaford, Stan Carlson, Ed Golski, Stan Sawka and Don MacAllister of Detroit. Chuck Vahn of Chicago, Charles and Everett Derocher of Pontiac and Ray Bero of Gladstone.

Deer hunters are flocking in the Rapid River area in unprecedented numbers. Observers reported that red-coats were "everywhere" at Rapid River Friday, buying supplies and getting ready for the opening of the season.

Early morning fog retarded the hunters on the opening of the season today. The fog was general throughout this area but lifted about nine a. m. Lack of snowfall also was an impediment to the hunters, complicating the problem of tracking deer, particularly wounded animals.

The four Anderson brothers are hunting together this year for the first time in several years. They are Atty. William E. Anderson of Escanaba, Clarence and Vernon of Menominee.

Personal Spies Flood Germany

By TOM REEDY

BERLIN (AP)—Propaganda boss Gerhart Eisler has more than 15,000 personal spies in the Soviet zone of Germany, but the Russians contend that still is too few.

The spies are known as "People's Correspondents" and they exist in every tiny village, county, city and state. To call them newspaper reporters would be a travesty but that is precisely what they pretend to be.

The Volks Correspondents were established several years ago to be the eyes and ears of Eisler's Office for Information. The Communist rulers ordered the East zone press to add such "correspondents" to their staffs, with full credentials. Their reports do not go into the press; they go to East Berlin for Eisler's staff to sort.

Praised By Russia

As "progressive" correspondents, the young Reds are told it is their duty in plant, mill, mine, on the streets, in the theaters and on the trains to report what people are saying and perhaps even thinking. Many a midnight visit from the dread security police cannot be explained any other way.

Eisler's office never would admit how many of these snoopers are running up and down the Soviet zone. But the Russians casually did recently. The Red Army newspaper Tagliche Rundschau apparently felt called upon to put some kind of a blessing on the Volks Correspondents.

After praising the movement as a direct outgrowth of Lenin-Stalin teachings, the Russians said in a front page article that there were already more than 15,000 People's Correspondents from the Elbe to the Oder.

No Choice For Editors

But, Rundschau complained, this is not enough. There should be many more. Part of the blame was put on the editors of the newspapers. Some are still "reactionary" enough to think a reporter ought to be a trained journalist delivering facts of public interest rather than just a keyhole peeper looking for Hans or Fritz to pull a boner and maybe criticize the regime.

It is necessary, the Russian organ declared, for every East zone editor to install one of the correspondents in each branch of his editorial section. This is like ordering a man to hire another whose sole purpose is to spy on his boss. But the editors of the East have little choice in the matter.

DEVELOPED JU-JITSU

The Lama monks of China first developed the ju-jitsu form of combat, to protect themselves against armed robbers, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

from touching at Uruguayan ports. This will mean a certain loss of revenue for Peron's own government shipping line, but the hardest blow—as intended—will be felt by Uruguay.

Characteristically, however, Uruguayans show no signs of being cowed. On the contrary, they have met the arbitrary Argentine measures with equally stiff restrictions of their own, slapping back at the dictator in the pink palace across the broad, muddy river.

nee, and Arnold of Ontonagon. They left today for their camp on the North Rock road in Maple Ridge township. Atty. Anderson will spend the week-end there, while the three others will stay at camp throughout the season.

Elmer Turnquist of Bark River filled his license this morning with a 6-point buck he downed while hunting on his farm.

Veteran deer-slayers at Elmer Swanson's camp on the Nahma Northern are Mr. Swanson and Ed Reeves, Ed Packenham and Ted Bohnenkamp.

John Cloutier opened the season at the Gravelle camp at Northland. He will be joined later by Eddie Gravelle.

Hunters at the Petoskey Antlers' Club in the Haymeadow area are going to be well fed this year. Albert Wilhelm of 327 S. 7th St., is their chef for the entire season.

Sam Poquette of Wells and Fred Arts Jr. of Escanaba are hunting at Oliver Poquette's camp at Mashek.

Out at the crack of dawn on his first hunting trip, young Billy Erickson of Ford River hit the jackpot. The 14-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Erickson knocked down a 200-pound, 18-point buck. And he didn't have to go far to find him. He made his kill at 8 a. m. just a mile and a half from his home.

The first buck he has ever bagged was claimed today by John E. (Moe) Kroll, 1527 Sheridan Road at the DeShambo camp near the Lost Forty on the Big West. He tells it took all the boys at the camp to haul in the 200-pound chunk of venison.

Brief Business Slump Foreseen

SEA ISLAND, Ga. (AP)—A brief "intermediate recession" may hit business late next year or in early 1954, in the opinion of some top business leaders.

The forecast was voiced privately by members of the Commerce Department's Business Advisory Council, which yesterday agreed that prosperity conditions are assured at least until mid-1953.

The temporary slump may come when government defense spending, due to reach its peak in about nine months, begins to taper off, some members told reporters.

The dip should not be severe and should last only a few months before sales and production regain their present momentum, the industrialists said.

One of the nearly 100 corporate heads who make up the council said none of the members expect President-elect Eisenhower to "work any miracles" in tax-cutting or budget balancing.

"We do expect a better climate for business in Washington," explained this source, who asked not to be named.

Increase Granted In Price Of Coal; Consumer To Pay

ement, organized labor and industry officials may determine whether the full increase is granted. If it is not, a coal strike is considered inevitable.

John L. Lewis, head of the United Mine Workers, negotiated the $1.90 soft coal increase with industry, but the wage board trimmed this to $1.50, contending that more than this would endanger national economy.

Both Lewis and the soft coal industry appealed the WSB ruling to Economic Stabilizer Roger L. Putnam. The important Monday hearing called by Putnam is to go over this appeal.

The increases bring miners' daily pay to around $17.50 per day. The cost of coal at the mines, under the new ceiling announced yesterday, will range from $5.45 to $16.25 per ton for anthracite coal, and from $3 to $12 per ton soft coal.

No One In Lansing To Act For Governor

LANSING (AP)—Note to governors of the various states: Don't bother trying to extradite anyone from Michigan for the next few days.

There's no one left in the capitol to sign the necessary papers.

Gov. Williams is enroute to Florida for a vacation. Lt. Gov. William C. Vandenberg is at home in Holland. He could sign, but there's no one in the department of state to issue the extradition papers.

Secretary of State Fred M. Alger Jr., also is in Florida on vacation. Deputy Secretary of State Harold Bradshaw is deer hunting. And, finally, Mrs. Opal Whitford, keeper of the great seal, is ill.

Tragedy Kills 44 As Plane Plunges Into Korean Hill

"exhaustive probe" of the disaster, the Air Force said.

Newsman Patricia Scott of the English language Nippon Times published in Tokyo, accompanied a search party to the scene of the Air Force transport crash which killed 44 United States Servicemen. This is her eyewitness story.

By PATRICIA SCOTT

SEOUL (AP)—I have just returned from the scene of the worst plane crash since the Korean War began.

Forty-four servicemen, returning from rest and recreation leave in Japan to the battlefield, were killed when a C-119 flying boxcar crashed into a mountain-side yesterday.

Presented Scattered

Some tried in vain to bail out just before the crash. I saw the bodies of four men whose parachutes had opened, but no one could say for sure whether they had cleared the plane before the crash.

The wreckage was in two sections, about 100 yards apart. Personal effects, including pictures of loved ones and Christmas presents bought in Japan, were strewn on the hillside.

It was a pitiful sight. As I walked through the wreckage, I found many Christmas presents that the fellows had bought while on leave in Japan. There were many gifts for women and children. One of them was a little pair of pink pajamas for a child.

No Suffering

Most of the bodies were horribly mangled or charred. The plane crashed in a draw at the junction of two ridges, near the crest line.

The only conclusion was that there could have been no suffering. Death was swift.

The terrain was impossible. It was hard climbing, most of it straight up, to reach the wreckage.

It took two and a half hours to reach the top.

The terrain was so rugged that helicopters could not land. Search parties were preparing to evacuate the dead by stretchers.

Individual horses have been known to reach the age of 40 or more.

Henry G. Olson and Chester Marrier

Those attending the rites included Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Caswell and Gordon and Gayle Lee of Kalkaska, Mich.; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hagerty, Elmhurst, Ill.; Edward Johnson, Mrs. Peggy Donahue, John Peterson, and Mr. and Mrs. Utland Peterson, Denmark, Wis.; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Johnson, Kenosha, Wis.; Mrs. Agnes Lanthier, Menominee, Milton McKinnon, Lombard, Ill., William McKinnon, Chicago and Mrs. Arthur Dumals and Al Burke, Kingsford.

MRS. ST. THOMAS

The hour of funeral services for Mrs. Priscilla St. Thomas has been changed to 9 a. m., Monday. Rev. Arnold Thompson will officiate at the funeral mass, from St. Thomas the Apostle church, and burial will be in Rapid River cemetery. Friends may call at Anderson funeral home beginning Sunday noon. The rosary will be recited at 8 p. m., Sunday. Services were originally scheduled for 10 a. m., Monday.

Kaiser Airplane Charges Denied

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Kaiser-Frazer Corp. denies accusations by Sen. Bridges (R-NH) that its aircraft operation at Willow Run, Mich., was inefficient and that the Air Force was paying too much for Kaiser-built planes.

In an open letter to Bridges President Edgar F. Kaiser of the corporation said yesterday the company "is ready and willing to submit any and all facts with regard to our production performance on the defense program."

Bridges had suggested a Senate investigation into what he said was an Air Force contract to pay K-F $1,200,000 to build each of 159 cargo planes like those he said another firm had built for $260,000 each.

Kaiser accused Bridges of making a "comparison of costs that are not in any respect comparable." Kaiser said he believes it "imperative" that the "correct facts" be presented before Congress.

endorsed the history without actually seeing the full manuscript.

Prodded by reporters who had dug up the story, the U. S. High Commission last night gave this opinion of the book:

"The editors show very definite and obvious pro-Communist, anti-democratic and anti-Catholic prejudices and, in a number of occasions, anti-Jewish and anti-theological prejudices.

Propaganda Quoted

"The tendentious editing is recognizable not only by statements along pro-Communist lines but also by the omission of important names and facts and the assignment of much space to subjective items which do no deserve them under an objective basis."

The commission produced two pages of excerpts to prove its contention of Red propaganda. It said Peters devoted twice as much space to the establishment of a town in Siberia as to the discovery of America by Christopher Columbus.

The excerpts included a quote from a Persian named Masdak whom the High Commission said it could not find mentioned in any standard reference book—as saying in 476 a.d.:

"Private property is the root of hatred and strife between men. Private property is the cause of all evil and bad."

"Communism is applied religion. All class differences must be abolished."

Among the other excerpts was: On the 1946-49 civil war in Greece against the monarchy supported by the U. S. A. was unavailing."

Stage Set For Conference Of Truman And Ike

Augusta, Ga. President Truman has ordered time off for all government workers who can be spared to join in the city-wide welcome.

Purpose of the meeting, suggested by Truman and quickly endorsed by Eisenhower, is to provide for a smooth transition from the old to the new administrations.

The general is expected to steer clear of any definite commitments, however.

Lodge showed no haste to get in touch with the State Department, contrary to some expectations. Officials of that agency said that, up to last night, he had made no move to communicate with top diplomats there.

Lodge, after a round of talks yesterday, joked about his defeat in the Nov. 4 election—"I'm one of the casualties of the victory"—but said he knew nothing about talk that he may be slated for appointment as secretary of state or secretary of defense.

Lodge lost his bid for reelection to Democrat John Kennedy, now a Massachusetts representative.

Brooding Veteran, 36, Commits Hari-Kari In Detroit With Sword

DETROIT (AP)—Stephen Zajac, 36-year-old war veteran reported to have been brooding lately over Japanese brutality he encountered in the South Pacific, committed hari-kari yesterday.

Police pronounced his death a suicide and said a 24-inch Japanese saber which he had used to disembowel himself lay beside his body. The saber was a war souvenir.

Zajac's body was found by his wife Mildred, 25, in a barn behind their home. She told police Zajac had brooded over brutality he had seen in the South Pacific.

Zajac's sister, Mrs. Mary Draybek, 30, said her brother spent a month in a hospital for mental treatment earlier this year.

He was a veteran of 18 months in the South Pacific and was the father of a 2½-year-old son.
